HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Organizers of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show (PAADS) are expecting a record turnout for the week-long show, Sept. 22-25 at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

More than 1,200 are entered in the four national and one state dairy cattle breed shows during the week, and there are 1,140 entries for the Pennsylvania Youth Dairy Show, set for Monday.

The youth show is believed to be one of the largest.

PAADS officially opens on Monday to a week of top quality dairy shows, two cattle sales, a week-long craft show, 67 commercial exhibitors, an expanded food court with milkshakes, ice cream and hot sandwiches, and special educational programs and presentations.

However, related events begin today with the state dairy princess pageant at 6:30 p.m. at the Sheraton Harrisburg-East.

A full schedule of youth-oriented activities is planned for tomorrow, Sunday, Sept. 21.

On Sunday, a first-ever youth showmanship contest has been scheduled. It is open to any youth aged 8 to 21, and is open to contestants who wish to walk-in and

Snider Receives All-American Image Award

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Obie Snider, owner of Singing Brook Farm, Imler, a long-time friend and avid supporter of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, has been selected to receive the 1997 Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show Image Award.

The award, to be presented at the All-American buffet on Sept. 24, will recognize Snider's efforts to improve the image of the show.

A part of the All-American since its inception in 1964, his leadership has helped the show become one of the premier dairy cattle shows. Elected president of the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industry Association in 1971, he is serving his 26th term leading the Association, which sponsors the show.

Snider will receive a specially crafted stained glass hanging mirror, inscribed with the words "Awarded to an individual who has enhanced the image of Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show by significant contributions toward its reputation, prestige, and welfare."

Snider is the sixth recipient of the Image Award. Previous winners include John Walker, Pittsburgh; Lee Yost, deceased; Stephen Spencer, State College; John L. Morris, Frederick, Md.; and Larry Specht, State College.

A 1950 graduate of Penn State, Snider has served both the univer-

EAST BERLIN (Adams Co.) — Did you ever wonder how that milk got to the refrigerator case in your supermarket?

Who are the people who milk the cows and feed them? What must they do to keep their herd healthy and producing the milk from which they earn their living?

These are some of the questions that will be answered during Adams County's annual Farm-City Festival and Farm Open House, scheduled from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. today at Yellow Buttercup Farm, owned by Larry and Yvonne Mummert and family. The farm is at 1509 Route 194 north near East Berlin. The public is invited.

On the farm the Mummert family purchased in 1974, they care for 450 registered Holstein cows. A landmark on the farm is the large brick-end barn that is centrally located on the property. It was built in 1817 by Jacob and Sara Baker and has been photographed for books such as "The Barn" by E. Arthur and D. Witney.

A tour of the farm will reveal to the visitor that the cows are milked in a "double-8" style parlor with automatic take-off milkers. This means that 16 cows can be milked at one time, according to Yvonne Mummert. The 175-head herd produces an average of about 21,000 pounds of milk.

Approximately 550 acres of land is planted in corn and alfalfa to feed the cows, she said. And an additional 35 acres are planted in fruits and vegetables such as asparagus, tomatoes, strawberries, sweet corn, and pumpkins, which are sold at the Buttercup Farm Market, just down the road from the farm, and purchased by Mummerts in July 1995.

Daughter Lela Mummert, who helps her mother operate the farm market, enjoys telling the story of how the business came into existence.

She said her great-grandmother Martha Snyder, who is still active in the family business, and Mummerts' youngest son Ladd Mummert, now a student at Penn State's York Campus, began selling sweet

In a field to the rear of Buttercup Farm Market along Rt. 194 near East Berlin, Yvonne Mummert checks flowers that will be used in dry arrangements. The Mummert farm is scheduled to be featured today at the Adams County Farm-City Day.

Prices were unchanged. The market tone was steady. Demand was mostly moderate to good. Scattered retail features and improved urban food service demand continued to provide the best movement. Supplies were generally adequate. Breaking stock prices were unchanged under a mostly steady trade sentiment, and both offerings and demand were irregular. Spent fowl supplies were short to adequate for full plant schedules.

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids were mostly lower at today's close due to continued slow export interest and improved crop condition in Australia. Some support was noted, however, due to indications Pakistan bought some US wheat on PL480 Program. Corn bids were on both sides of unchanged with light pressure steming from lack of fresh export demand, good crop conditions and sharply lower bean bids. Soybean bids fell sharply lower on favor- able growing weather and reduced talk of frost damage. Wheat mostly 1 to 3 cents lower. Corn mixed. Sorghum steady to 2 cents higher. Soy- beans mostly 12 to 21 cents lower.

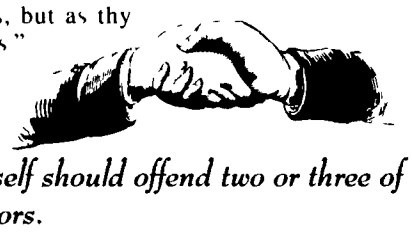
The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

SEPTEMBER 22-28, 1997

AUTUMNAL EQUINOX, SEPT. 22.

NATIONAL GOOD-NEIGHBOR DAY

September 28 must be when zucchinis are at their peak, because what better sign is there of true neighborliness than that special person next door who's willing to take a few zucchinis off your hands? Someone once joked that the definition of loneliness is buying a zucchini from the grocery store at summer's end Possibly, though, if you would "Love thy neighbor as thyself," you might find it more neighborly not to leave your zucchinis on their doorstep For the best advice on the matter, remember that "It is not as thy mother says, but as thy neighbor says"



He who wants to know himself should offend two or three of his neighbors.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Feed your compost with those baseball bat–size zucchinis, and feel no guilt.

ZUCCHINI BREAD

- 3 eggs
- 1 cup corn or safflower oil
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 cups grated zucchini
- 2-1/2 teaspoons vanilla
- 3 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Beat eggs until light Add next four ingredients, mix, and set aside Mix dry ingredients, combine with the wet, and stir in the nuts Bake in two well-greased loaf pans at 325° F for 50 to 60 minutes. Cool pans on racks.

Makes 2 loaves.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

The number of fogs in autumn tells the number of snows in winter.

When the fog goes up, the rain is o'er. When the fog comes down, 'twill rain some more.

A southerly wind and a cloudy sky proclaim a hunting morning.

OPINION

Experience All-American

The All-American Dairy Show is scheduled for this week. And what a good time this is to see excellent cows and heifers in their show clothes. One of the notes from past years is that often when these major national dairy shows are in progress, the stands at the Farm Show arena are not very full of people. That's hard to understand when these shows can be such an educational tool to illustrate what each major breed is looking for in their champions.

But the All-American is not just breed shows. Specific youth activities also will be highlighted. Along with showing and fitting contests, the Junior Dairy Management Contest will test the comprehensive dairy knowledge and skills of 4-H and FFA members.

The dairy judging forum is also held with nearly 500 youth participating in dairy cattle judging that includes class placings and oral reasons.

In addition, we would like to congratulate Obie Snider as the recipient of the All-American Dairy Show Image Award. Snider has been part of the show since its inception in 1964 and has helped the show become one of the premier dairy cattle shows in the nation. He will be honored at the buffet on Wednesday evening in the small arena.

For all the above reasons and many more, we think it would be a good time to make a trip to Harrisburg and experience the All-American Dairy Show first hand.

❖ FARM FORUM ❖

Editor:

I cannot believe that it has already been a year since I was given the honor of serving as PA Dairy Princess. The past twelve months have been the greatest months of my life. I have the opportunity to visit many places across the state and meet numerous people. But most importantly I was able to be a spokesperson for the dairy industry on behalf of all PA dairy farmers.

Being raised on a dairy farm, I have always known that dairy farmers were special people. However, this past year I have really grown to respect and admire everything that a farmer does in life and I tried to pass that appreciation to the hundreds of consumers that I have come into contact with this year.

People of all ages, not just children, have no idea where milk comes from or all the hard work that it takes to produce it. Some people think that farmers still milk the cows by hand. This is just one example of the many misconceptions consumers have about the dairy industry. That is why promotion is so important. I believe promotion is a key part of the future of the dairy industry.

The Dairy Princess program not only promotes the dairy industry, but also teaches young girls to become positive role models. I have gained so much by being dairy princess. I have become more outgoing, acquired the ability to write and deliver speeches and gained more self confidence. Overall the year has been amazing.

Tonight, some other very lucky lady will have a wonderful year ahead of her to be the representative for dairy industry. Even though I will no longer wear the crown, my love and support of the industry and respect for those in it will always remain. Thank you all for a wonderful year and God bless!

Sincerely
Angela M. Werley
1996-97 PA Dairy Princess

To Understand Hessian Fly

The Hessian fly is a potential pest of the winter wheat crop. While it has not been a severe problem in recent history, the potential is always there if farmers forget to follow the rules of good management The Hessian fly is a long legged, two winged, sooty black insect that resembles a small mosquito It has two generations during the wheat production cycle

The fly spends the summer in the pupa stage First generation adults emerge from late August through September They begin laying eggs on volunteer and early planted wheat Eggs hatch and the maggot develops through three instars which feed inside the wheat plant and stunts its growth. Damage is usually not very visible After feeding the maggot enter the pupa stage to over winter just below the soil surface, near the crown of the plant.

In late March through April, a second generation of flies emerge and lay eggs. Maggots then emerge three to seven days later and crawl down the plant to feed at the crown or joints of the stem. This spring feeding will result in weak joints causing lodging, reduce head size and produce shriveled seeds. After feeding the maggot enters the pupa stage to go through the summer.

To Control Hessian Fly

According to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, once a field becomes infested with Hessian fly, there is no chemical control available to stop the damage to wheat. Control of Hessian fly is based solely on prevention using good crop management. First, destroy all volunteer wheat Destroying volunteer wheat several weeks before planting the new crop will reduce the possibility of fly population build up.

Hessian flies may use barley or rye as a host but not oats. Thus, you need to delay planting these crops or destroy volunteer plants. Second, plant a resistant wheat variety. Check with the seed source. If it is not, it is especially important to destroy volunteer wheat, barley and rye. and Third, plant wheat after the fly free date. This varies from county to county. In Lancaster County, planting wheat between October 1 to October 15 will usually avoid Hessian fly problems. Planting later will mean plants will be smaller going into winter and more seed is needed to optimize yield potential.

A BAG WITH HOLES
September 21, 1997

Background Scripture:
Haggai
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 31:1-14

A boy on his way home from Sunday School was seen sobbing by a man waiting for a bus. "What's the matter?" the man asked. The little boy rubbed his eyes while he explained that he had lost his money for bus fare and his family was waiting for him to come from Sunday School. The man, who considered himself an atheist, said to the little boy, "But if God loves you, why hasn't he sent someone to help you?" Looking him in the eye, the little boy replied, "I'm sure he has told someone, but I guess he didn't hear him!"

Many times when we see someone in need and no one helping, it is not because God has not sent someone to help, but because those someones either have not heard or, hearing, have not responded. How often do we find ourselves asking, "Why don't they do something about that?" What we need to do in many of those instances is to change the question just ever so slightly, substituting the noun "we" for "they."

In the days of the prophet Haggai — the 6th centry BC — I am sure people looked at the ruins of the Jerusalem temple and exclaimed, "Why don't they do something about that?" Of course, this was not a matter of no one hearing God's command to restore the temple. Haggai tells us the people did hear, but they answered, saying, "The time has not yet come to rebuild the house of the Lord" (1:2). That is a response to God that is still very contemporary, isn't it: "Good idea, Lord, but not just now."

A SHAMEFUL STATE

The sorry state of the temple probably bothered and embarrassed the returned exiles, but Haggai tells us, "Thus says the Lord of hosts: This people say the time has not yet come to rebuild the house of the Lord" (Haggai 1:2). WE can only speculate on why that time had "not yet come," but judging from our own times, we may assume that there were a number of excuses: "Poor economy," "Too much unemployment," "It's all I can do to keep ahead of taxes" and so on.

I will have to admit that these sound like pretty good reasons. Actually, there's usually "some truth" in all our excuses. That's why we use them — it saves us from lying outright. It permits us to feel justified in not rising to the challenge. Probably the people of Haggai's day believed their own excuses: they really did not think the time had not yet come for them to rebuild the temple.

That's why it was so unsettling when "the word of the Lord came to Haggai the prophet" and he proclaimed: "Is it a time for you yourselves to dwell in your paneled houses, while this house lies in ruins?" (1:4). This one sentence throws the situation into a whole new light. Up until this point one might get the impression that the people were so impoverished that they were living in hovels and shacks. But Haggai is talking about "paneled houses" and these were not by any means your basic shelter. A paneled house was one that required the services of a fine artisan. These people were not so poor that they could not afford to add some frills to their lives.

HOW'S IT WORKING?

Their problem, then, is not a lack of means, but a lack of will. These people are looking out for their own interests. But where does it get them?

Haggai says to them, "Consider how you have fared? You have sown much, and harvested little; you eat, but you never have enough; you drink, but you never have your fill; you clothe yourselves, but no one is warm/ and he who earns wages earns wages to put into a bag with holes" (1:6). No matter how strongly and compellingly this self-centeredness has driven them, it has not brought them any real satisfaction. We too may constantly put off responding when God calls because we are sure this is not the right time. But the right time never comes and all of our running after material gain is like pouring our money and our lives into pockets with holes.

Exports Present Bonus

DENVER, Colo. — Beef exports in 1996 increased by 3 percent over 1995's record export volume — a significant bonus for American cattle producers and allied industries last year, according to a recent study by CF Resources, an independent research firm in Denver, Colo.

Export sales of U.S beef and beef variety meats, the study show, were responsible for 12.4 percent of the wholesale value of total U.S. beef production last year — down slightly from 12.7 percent in 1995, but three times the figure of just 10 years ago.

The study finds that U.S. cattle prices benefit substantially from increased demand for high-quality, grain-fed U.S. beef in foreign markets. Given production levels and demand last year in the United States, export sales of U.S. beef in 1996 added $110.06 per head to the value of fed cattle, $105 per head to feeder cattle, and $99.70 per head to calves.

Supreme Swine Named At York Fair Open Show

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — No breed made a complete sweep of the supreme banners at the 1997 York Fair's open swine show, with the three top award winners representing a cross-section of the quality pigs on exhibit. Judge Frank Feeser, Taneytown, Maryland, in picking the winners, offered reasons for his supreme selections tying swine breeder goals to the retail pork consumer.

Named supreme boar was the March-born Chester White exhibited by Michael and Gene Weber, Shrewsbury. It topped a field of breed winners that included the Greg and Beth Innerst family's Berkshire champion, Rodge Bankert's Duroc contender, the Hampshire and Landrace champions of Donna Strawbridge, Larry Feeser's Poland winner, the Cornbower family's Yorkshire and Weber's own contending Spotted champion.

Supreme female was also a heated runoff of eight separate breed contenders, with Feeser's final nod going to the Hampshire entry of Donna Strawbridge and her son J.C. Also in competition were the Innerst family's Berkshire champion, Weber's Chester, the Poland champion of Cheryl Bennecoff, Wilson's Yorkshire winner and Strawbridge's competing Spotted and Landrace breed winners.

Topping the heavily-contended barrow contest was the crossbred champion of junior exhibitor Mike Burrell, who also won the junior market class with the same Duroc gilt. Though a purebred, the winning market animal showed as a crossbred because it was a gilt. In market swine contention from the other breeds were Innerst's Berkshire, the Cornbower Family's Chester White, Bankert's Duroc, the Landrace champion of Charles Griest, the Weber family's Spotted entry and Donna Strawbridge's Yorkshire.

A final pairs contest among the breeds put the crossbred entry from Wilson's Yorkshirees on top, with the Berkshire pair named the reserve winners.

Top breed honors in the Berkshire classes went to Jessica Innerst, Red Lion, exhibiting a January sow pig, while her sister, Lane Innerst's junior yearling claimed the reserve spot. A pair of February pigs topped the Duroc contest, with champion ribbons going to Kathleen Jenkins, Fawn Grove, and Jared Seitz, Felton, in the reserve placing.

Matt Trostle, Red Lion, topped the Hampshire breed show with a February sow pig, with the second place entry in that class, exhibited by Amanda Hoover, East Prospect, claiming reserve honors. Jesicya Robinson, Delta, was the single exhibitor and champion winner in Spotted Polands.

Littermates Take York Fair Junior Market Pig Honors

YORK (York Co.) — A pair of Duroc littermates copped the champion and reserve honors in the highly-competitive York Fair's junior market hog showing.

Exhibiting "Red," the gilt that took the champion spot, was Dover 4-H'er Mike Burrell. The winning heavyweight division gilt weighed in at 259 pounds and bested a large field of competition to take the coveted banner. Judge Frank Feeser praised her as an example of what the swine industry must market to please choosy pork consumers.

Taking the reserve champion banner was veteran swine 4-H exhibitor Adam Sellers, Thomasville. Sellers' sister to the champion weighed in at 245 pounds and earlier collected the top spot in the light heavyweight classes. The pair was bred by Bankert's Durocs, Hanover.

Other division honors went to Lane Innerst and Adam Shue Jr., champion and reserve in the lightweight category, and Nicole Eisenhart and Tammi Grubb, top winners in the medium weight runoffs. Reserve champion light heavyweight was exhibited by Russell Wilson and reserve heavyweight award went to Beth Parrish.

Mike Burrell claimed the supreme barrow banner, as well as open and junior show market hog honors, with his Duroc gilt. Judge Frank Feeser offers congratulations.

Four exhibitors shared high honors in the swine showmanship and fitting competitions. Tammi Grubb, Hanover, was selected the champion showman, with Lindsay Jones, East Berlin, named the reserve champion showman. Champion fitting honors went to New Freedom junior exhibitor Allen Combower, with Beth Parrish, York, finishing as the reserve champion fitter.

GOOD DEALS...AND A GOOD DEAL MORE

Entire Commu.nity Is A Winner At Perry County Fair

NEWPORT (Perry Co.) — The Perry County Fair is one of the premiere events of this county, creating a sense of community that is a positive influence on all involved.

Members of the Perry County 4-H clubs and area FFA chapters received strong support from area business leaders and other buyers at the annual livestock auction held recently on the last night of the fair. Buyers at the auction purchased 50,400 pounds of market animal for a total of $63,500, which was about $33,150 over the estimated market price.

Mutzabaughs Market of Duncannon led the buying with a purchase of 12 animals. Dobbs Produce of Newport was second with a purchase of nine animals.

More than $6,000 was raised during the auction to begin a scholarship fund in memory of Leona Hicks, a West Perry High School student and FFA member who died in a recent traffic accident. Two market hogs that Leona raised were sold at the fair, and many other animals were sold and then resold, with the money from the intitial sale going to the scholarship fund.

Adam Landvater and his 1,255-pound Limousin steer.

"Perry County has the reputation for one of the best meat goat shows in Pennsylvania and Ohio," said Dr. Robert Herr, judge of the market goat and market goat showmanship competitions held at the fair. Although only 24 market goats were shown, the quality of the animals was excellent.

Dawn McLaren and her grand champion market goat.

The 4-H grand champion market goat was shown by Dawn McLaren and the reserve grand champion was shown by Adam Landvater. Bart Gill was master market goat showman, and the reserve market goat showman was Kristina Watson.

Earlier this year, Bart showed the grand champion market goat at the 1997 State Farm Show in Harrisburg. The animal winning the award had been a lightweight market goat entered in last year's Perry County Fair.

Herr also judged the market lamb, breeding sheep, and sheep showmanship competitions at the fair. From the 52 market lambs shown, Amber Hetrick took double honors, winning grand champion with her 114-pound Dorset lamb and reserve grand champion with her 102-pound Hampshire cross bred lamb. Sheena Hines received honors as master sheep showman, and Cortney Pontius was reserve sheep showman.

Amber Hetrick and her grand champion market lamb.

In addition to the sheep and market goat shows, the fair featured market swine, market steer, rabbit, dairy cattle, and dairy goat competitions. Of the 91 market hogs shown, honors for 4-H grand champion went to Veronica Nace, with Drew McGuire's market hog being named reserved grand champion. Drew was master swine showman, and Kevin Shutt was reserve swine showman.

Adam Landvater's 1,225-pound Limousin steer was grand champion, and Chris Willhide's Angus steer was reserve grand champion. Christine Peterson was market steer master showman and Casey Hines was reserve master showman.

In the rabbit competition, Byron Laird received honors for the grand champion rabbit meat pen, and Tracy Lindgren won honors for the reserve. Keri Rowe was rabbit master showman and Abby Ongley was reserve master showman.

Kassy Snyder showed the best dairy goat in the show, and was also dairy goat master showman. Rebecca Spangler was dairy goat reserve master showman. Brian Salzburg showed the 4-H grand champion dairy cow, and Amanda Myers showed the reserve dairy cow. Liza Haas was dairy cattle master showman. Joe Haas was dairy cattle reserve master showman.

Competition for the coveted award of supreme showman was held on the fourth night of the fair, when the master showmen from each livestock category competed with each other. Many 4-H livestock club members, leaders, and parents consider this to be one of the most prestigious awards presented at the fair. Drew McGuire won the title of grand champion supreme showman, with the title of reserve champion supreme showman going to Bart Gill.

Land O'Lakes Directors, Delegates Review New Governance Proposal

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Directors and delegates attending the Land O'Lakes joint directors meeting Aug. 21-22 in Minneapolis, Minn. received a proposal to restructure the cooperative's governance system for the 21st century.

As part of this review, the directors and delegates approved a bylaw amendment calling for a one-year moratorium or "freeze" on director elections.

The amendment, which passed by a 94-percent favorable vote, is a step in the continuing membership consideration of a new governance structure Land O'Lakes has proposed to its 11,000 producer/members.

The cooperative's overall governance system was last overhauled in 1970. The current revision began three years ago when board chairman Stan Zylstra appointed a Governance Committee of the board to review member representation and corporate board structure. The committee's work continued beyond the merger of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and Land O'Lakes earlier this year.

The freeze on director elections is to allow for a smoother transition of the new governance system, should members approve the proposal at the 1998 annual meeting.

If approved, the new system will become effective at the 1999 annual meeting, at which time all corporate director positions will be open for election.

Held annually, the joint directors meeting brings together Land O'Lakes Dairy Foods Unit delegates, district directors and the corporate board of directors. During the meeting, cooperative business activities and financial reports are discussed.

Innerst Heads National Berkshire Group

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

RED LION (York Co.) — "Without purebreds, all you're going to have someday will be mongrels," said York County pork producer Greg Innerst.

Innerst, an outspoken advocate of retaining the value of purebred animal genetics, is the newest president of the American Berkshire Association (ABA). He was elected head of the ABA at the July annual meeting in Beatrice, Neb., held in conjunction with the breed's national summer type conference show and sale.

The Innerst family, which includes Greg, his wife Beth, and their daughters Lane and Jesse, maintain a 20-sow Berkshire breeding operation on their Deer Road farm. He is employed in the retail meat business and also serves as president of the York County Pork Producers.

One of nine national directors, Innertst was elevated to the head post by his peers after serving just a year on the board. But even before his election to the breed presidency, he was tireless in promoting the value of the black and white hog that has become gold in some meat cases around the world.

"It was the Japanese who told us what we had," said Innerst, of the island nation where Berkshires are highly regarded for both their meat quality and genetics. "They've been a favorite there for years. Japanese began exporting from here about 1970."

As the U.S. pork industry focused on consumer trends toward low and no fat, Berkshire popularity in the U.S. faltered. The breed has wrestled over the years with a reputation as a meat that tends toward fattiness. But while Berkshire hogs were domestically out of the pork industry favor, oriental gourmet cooks tuned their tastebuds to the breed's meat of higher Ph level, brighter red color, and tenderness.

"Consumers want a quality product that tastes good," said Innerst, who makes it a point to sample pork dishes when he dines out. "But they've been told it must be lean, lean — that can make pork tough. Berks have just a little fat marbled through the meat, what it needs to give it tenderness and flavor."

The American Berkshire Associatioin, organized in 1875 and the oldest official swine registry in the world, has taken another lead in the industry with its Berkshire Gold program. Berkshire Gold is a standard of meat measurement and quality.

To qualify to be graded and sold as Berkshire Gold, animals must be at least 50 percent purebred Berkshire, backed up with a "paper trail" of pedigrees and breeding.

But just having the right pedigrees does not automatically put a Berkshire or Berk-crossed hog in the Gold program. The carcass must also meet the program's rigid quality criteria.

Only a few packers in the Mid-West are certified to participate in the Berkshire Gold export program. Eastern producers of Berkshires who meet the Gold standards and quality for the carcass premium payments of $3 to $10 per hundredweight must now network. To take advantage of the niche market, some pool their animals at a collection point and ship them up to several hundred miles west.

One of Greg Innerst's goals as national Berkshire president is to change that. He aims, within a year or two, to have helped establish an East Coast packing and sales program for Berkshire Gold certified meat readily accessible to consumers.

Success of that program, however, may hinge on supply. And because of Berkshires declining numbers over the past few

Beth and Greg Innerst, right, accepted a plaque for their national champion boar at the Berkshire summer type conference. Making the presentation was Berkshire Association Vice President Randy Tuthill.

Maryland Swine Show Results Given From State Fair

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md. — A spot gilt shown by Rural Rhythm farm in Dayton was chosen supreme champion female at the swine show at the Maryland State Fair. RR 27 Miss B 1-7, a homebred January gilt sired by DSF 5 Hotshot, rose to supreme champion after gathering the champion female ribbon in the Poland China and Spot show held at the fairgrounds in Timonium. The Hotshot semen had been purchased by Ricky Bauer of Rural Rhythm from Randall Buck in Oklahoma, where the boar was champion and top selling boar at the 1995 Fall Classic.

The gilt placed first in her class and was grand champion Spot gilt at the Montgomery County fair earlier this year. A littermate to the supreme champion, RR 27 Miss B 1-9, was the second place January gilt and went on to take reserve champion female in the Poland China and Spot show for Rural Rhythm farm here at state fair.

Kim Brock, herd manager of the swine farm at Oklahoma State University, said he had enjoyed his first trip to Maryland to judge at the state fair, "It's been an excellent show with a lot of quality. There has been a lot of quality in each show, and it's been a great group of people," said the judge. Six breed shows held over three days at the 116th state fair showcased the swine.

The supreme champion barrow was the champion heavyweight Yorkshire exhibited by Frank Feeser of Taneytown. The 233 pound barrow was scanned at .81 backfat, 7.42 loin eye, and measured 56.44% lean. That barrow also won the Yorkshire class in the carcass show for Feeser.

Supreme champion pair of barrows was awarded to the champion lightweight pair of Hampshires bred and exhibited by Ken Winebark and family from Myerstown, Pennsylvania. The barrows, littermates out of a son of Ritz, weighed in at 205 pounds and 222 pounds respectively. The lighter barrow scanned at .64 backfat, 5.91 loin eye, and was 54.69% lean. The other measured .63 backfat, 6.26 loin eye, 55.35% lean.

The supreme champion of the electronic carcass class went to a homebred lightweight Hampshire barrow owned by Bud Strohmer of Woodstock. The barrow had placed in the middle of his class in the regular show, said Strohmer. With a backfat of .58 and a loin eye of 6.57, making him 56.94% lean, the 211 pound barrow led the Hampshire carcass class. This was the second year the class has been held at the state fair. It was conducted by Dr. Mark Estienne from the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, using real time ultrasound to measure backfat thickness and loin eye area.

Juniors Dominate York Fair Open Market Hog Show

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — York Fair's open market pig show became a summer rerun when a pair of littermates that won the junior event duplicated their success in the open class runoffs.

Mike Burrell, Dover, snagged the grand champion spot with his purebred Duroc gilt. Taking the reserve grand champion title was fellow 4-H'er Adam Sellers, Thomasville, with his matching gilt. The winning pair were bred by Bankert's Durocs, Hanover, but exhibited in and won their Crossbred division since they were gilts.

The pair of junior winners topped a large show of eight breed market hog contenders. Champions and reserves from competing breeds included the Berkshires, with Greg and Beth Innerst, Red Lion, showing the champion and Arlile Cornbower, New Freedom, with the reserve Berkshire and the champion Chester White. Rodger Bankert, Hanover, had the Duroc champion and reserve, and Charlie Greist, Abbottstown, won both Landrave market hog top spots.

Junior exhibitors Drew Bankert and Matt Trostle won the Hampshire breeds champion and reserve spots, and the Spotted pig championship went to Mike and Jean Weber, Shrewsbury. Champion in the Yorkshire breed was exhibited by Donna Strawbridge, Whitehall, while the reserve champion winner was Steve Wilson, New Freedom.

On his farm tour Monday morning, U.S. Rep. Joseph Pitts visits with Marvin and Pat Witmer at their dairy farm located near Lititz.

Pitts Visits Farms On Tour

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) - In what has become an annual tour, Joseph Pitts (R) 16th District in the U.S. House of Representatives, visited four farms in Lancaster and Chester Counties to report what is happening in Washington and to hear the local concerns.

The concerns discussed at the first stop Monday morning at the Marvin Witmer farm, Lititz, included the impact of regulations, taxes, and farm prices.

Pitts said Congress has made some impact on taxes that have direct impact on farms and farm families. With the reduction of capital gains taxes and the death tax, farm families have a better chance to pass on the farm to the next generation without being pushed out of business.

"Death should not be a taxable event," Pitts said. "You have worked all your life to make it better for your kids and you should be able to pass on the farm without being taxed."

As for tax reform, Pitts said this is mostly a local school and governing body problem. But he said the state can pass tax reform that would allow local taxing of personal income as a mix with real estate taxes. Allowing for a mix of income and real estate taxes would require additional limits on local taxing authority, he said, because when you reduce property taxes you want to make sure you keep them down.

As for milk prices, Pitts said he has always been a supporter of the milk marketing board in Pennsylvania, but in the last two federal farm bills the push has been toward more free markets. "But I am going to be looking to try to make sure that whatever is done is reasonable and the impact is such that farmer's can get their market value out of it.

"I have always been for free trade. But the President (Clinton) is approaching Congress for something called "fast track" so he can have some latitude to make trade agreements on a speedier basis. We are trying to listen to see what the impact on some of the local industry would be. I tend to think we have some tremendous bargaining power since we are such a hugh market for other countries' products. We should say to other countries, 'If our products are not welcome in your country, then we are going to take a look at your product comming in here.' I don't like tarrifs but it must be a two-way trade."

Pitts said he thinks we have a great way of life here in the farm community in Pennsylvania and in the nation. But our production increases faster each year than our own population. So, we must look to foreign markets to promote products and services.

Later in the morning Pitts visited Weaver Homestead at New Holland. In the afternoon, he went to the Charles and Don Gable farm near Elverson, and the Herr Angus Farm at Nottingham.

Cooperative Extension Agents Receive Awards

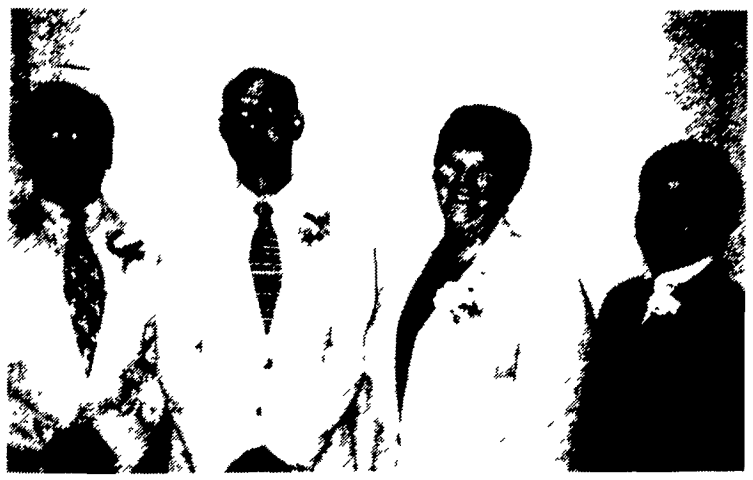
BURLINGTON, Vt. — Four members of Penn State University's Cooperative Extension staff was among the 131 agents in the United States who received awards on July 17 here at the annual meeting of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

The awards program highlighted the annual meeting, where more than 1,800 extension agents and guests convened review their responsibilities as educators and attend professional improvement workshops.

The Achievement Award and the Distinguished Service Award honor the top two percent of extension agents in each state for their hard work and success.

The Achievement Award recognizes agents with less than 10 years of service to cooperative extension. Fifty-two agents in the U.S. received the Achievement Award in 1997. Honored was Mary Sue Shick, Washington County extension agent, and J. Craig Williams, Tioga County extension agent.

Two members of Penn State University's Cooperative Extension staff are among 79 agents in the U.S. who received the Distinguished Service Award. Honored was Paul Craig, Dauphin County extension agent, and Scott Guiser, Bucks County extension agent.



Extension agents were recently honored. From left, Paul Craig, Dauphin County; Scott Guiser, Bucks County; Mary Sue Shick, Washington County; and J. Craig Williams, Tioga County.

Fair Celebrates Anniversary

ARENDTSVILLE (Adams Co.) — A boost from a new major sponsor helped the South Mountain Fair to celebrate its 75th anniversary Aug. 27-31 at the fairgrounds outside of Arendtsville.

Dave Deaner of Gettysburg, fair board president, welcomed GS Communications Inc. of Gettysburg, which has provided Adams County with cable service for the past 20 years.

Deaner said it was a coincidence that the fair and the company were celebrating anniversaries. Other fair sponsors are Knouse Food, Yazoo Mills, and WGTY Radio, he said.

A highlight of the the fair was the appearance Aug. 30 of Trace Adkins, voted new male vocalist of the year for 1997. Tickets for the show were sold out almost immediately, Deaner said.

The fair president added that it was the first time an entertainer of Adkin's caliber was booked and was the result ot the GS Communications sponsorship.

Waiting for the crowds to show up, Ed and Mary Knox of Gettysburg watched over their stand of handmade ceramic figurines and needlepoint items. Ed explained that Mary does all of the figurine painting as he sat working a needlepoint project.

Mary explained that at girlfriend got her started in the crafts and as a result the couple now spend up to 30 weekends a year at craft shows.

State Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr. attends the 75th anniversary of the South Mountain Fair in Adams County and joins Ashley Claassen, 11, McKnightstown, a member of the Adams County 4-H Beef Club, in grooming her steer for competition.

Nearby, Ken Slaybaugh of Aspers had set up his birdhouses made from old barn siding. Slaybaugh tears down old barns and uses the wood to make the birdhouses and other furniture. He explained that many old barns are too expensive for farmers to repair, and with more modern facilities such as milking parlors, barns "have become a thing of the past."

Slaybaugh's business is called Olde World Crafts.

On hand for the fairgoers entertainment were four Percherons from the Shining Eye in Delta, which is owned by Walt and Lucille Rice.

The huge workhorses that Judy Yohe, representing Shining Eye, calls "big pets" are ok with crowds because they are often in the line of march at parades, attend fairs, and compete in various events such as the Pennsylvania State Farm Show. Shining Eye sends its' horses throughout Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia.

Also taking part in the events on Aug. 30 was state secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes, Jr., who recognized the fair on its anniversary.

decades, top quality genetics are also almost worth their weight in gold.

"Berkshires had a bad name for years, because of their appearance and performance. We've got to get over those old barriers," Innerst said. "They've been improved in leanness and muscle quality, and the meat quality issue has regenerated interest in the Berkshire hog."

No meat scientist has yet been able to determine why Berkshire meat has a redder color than that of competing pork breeds. Researchers at Iowa State are currently running genetic studies and DNA testing in attempts to unravel the mystery. Someday, Innerst foresees, Berkshire will be able to be genetically "fingerprinted" to certify their heritage.

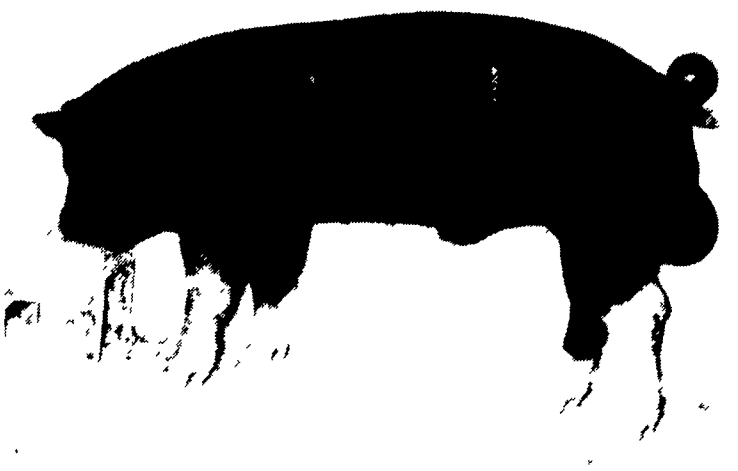
"It's exciting and its expensive," said Innerst. "So there has to be a premium on the product to justify the studies and the investment."

As industry interest has swung toward Berkshire genetics, the Innerst family's prize-winning bloodlines have generated more buyer interest than their small breeding herd can meet. They're considering a modest expansion in their sow herd size to help meet the uptick in demand.

For her reserve champion junior gilt at the national junior show, Lane Innerst received a commemorative blanket from youth awards sponsor Roger Allen.

At the Nebraska summer type conference where he was elected ABA president, Innerst exhibited the champion board for the second consecutive year. This year's winner then sold for $3,000 to Lean Value Sires, New Carlisle, Ohio, with lesser interests owned by Mapes Family Berkshires and Roger Allen. It was the first of Innersts' Berkshires to go into industry A.I. service and the first Berkshire boar added to Lean Valley's sire lineup.

The six-month-old boar hog, born Feb. 6, was out of a dam that was a littermate to last year's boar champion. Two other littermates took second and third spots in the open gilt class. Innerst also showed the champion purebred market hog, which held that ranking through carcass judging, and was rated reserve overall, with 50 percent of the carcass evaluation graded on meat quality.



For the second consecutive year, Innerst Berkshires exhibited the champion boar at the Berkshire summer type conference national show. The homebred sold for $3,000 to Lean Value Sires, New Carlisle, Ohio. The winning boar is the first from the Innerst's bloodlines to go into national A.I. use.

In the national junior show, 12-year-old Lane exhibited yet another littermate to the reserve champion gilt spot, then sold it to an Illinois buyer. Jesse, a veteran hog exhibitor at age 9, wrapped up her national competition by finishing in the top four in the showmanship classes.

Earlier this year, the Innersts' trio of bred gilt entries in the Farm Show snagged three firsts, plus the champion and reserve titles. They followed that in February with the reserve champion gilt at the Ohio invitational and premier exhibitor title at the Southwest Type Conference show in Oklahoma.

The Innersts will have their second qualifying pig at "hog college" in September in Minnesota. "Hog college" is a show and sale of selected entrants from testing programs around the country. Innersts' boar qualified for the select group through the stringent evaluation program at Penn State.

Greg Innerst chanced into the Berkshire breed as an eighth-grade FFA student, in need of weaned pigs for a purebred pork breeding project. The pigs he originally wanted to buy were outpriced for his budget, so he opted for a pair of eight-week-old Berkshire gilts.

"And I've been hooked on Berkshires ever since," he said.

Best Friends Share Champion Spotlight

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Not only did Allison Hughes win her first Solanco Fair swine championship Thursday afternoon, but she shared the spotlight with the reserve champion, her friend Tiffany Dean.

"I just want you to write that Tiffany and I are best friends," Allison told Lancaster Farming as she held the supreme market hog trophy.

Allison, 11, is the daughter of Chet and Marie Hughes, Lancaster. Allison showed "Maryanne" (named after her favorite character in the TV series, "Gilligan's Island"), a 245-pound Hampshire crossbred gilt that won the middleweight division.

Chet Hughes, Allison's father and Lancaster County livestock agent, said the hog was AI sired

Solanco Fair Exhibitor Makes Steer 'Work' For Championship

ANDY ANDREWS

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Justin Wimer believes that steers should work for their champion ribbon.

Literally.

His secret: place the water at the bottom of the hill. When the steer wants to eat, make him walk 100 yards uphill to get to the feed.

It was that kind of "work for it, earn it" strategy that netted the supreme steer trophy on Thursday evening at the Solanco Fair.

Justin, 14, son of Debbie and Richard Wimer, Quarryville, walked his Angus/Chianina crossbred steer, Buddy, to supreme champion. Show judge Greg Krueger, Angus breeder from Coatesville, said he believes the steer would hand up a really good carcass.

Justin obtained the steer, middleweight champion of the show, from a Weaver and MacIntyre Club Calf Sale in Lititz. The Solanco High School 9th grader spent about two hours of work before the show, washing and clipping the steer.

The steer learned to exercise himself — simply by walking 100 yards up a steep grass/rock slope — from the water trough to the feed. Another ingredient to championship success for Justin has been feeding a combination calf grower and cracked corn.

This is Justin's one and only show for the year, though he hopes to attend state Farm Show someday. He is a member of Solanco FFA.

Reserve champion was captured by Jessica Schmidt for her purebred Angus steer. Jessica, 15, is the daughter of Laurie and Pete Schmidt, Drumore.

Laurie said the steer was bred in the fair hometown at Twin Oak Farms. Last year, Laurie said Jessica also won reserve champion at Solanco with another purebred from Quarryville.

The steer Jessica showed this year, Twin Oaks Power Buzz ("Buzz," named after the popular character in the film "Toy Story"), was shown at the Penn State Beef Expo in March.

Jessica walks with the steer "constantly," said Laurie. Jessica's steer was the reserve champion of the middleweight division. Jessica is assistant secretary in the Red Rose 4-H Beef Club and is secretary of the 4-H Woolies Club.

Jessica will be showing at the Keystone International Livestock Expo (KILE), Manheim Fair, and state Farm Show.

Also, for the first time, Solanco Fair began a fitting contest, of which Jessica won senior champion.

There were a total of eight exhibitors and the same number of steers. Following is a list of show placings.

from a Trotter boar by Hughes' brother-in-law, Keith Bard, Portage. Allison is in the 6th grade at Martin Meylin Middle School and plans to show hogs at the West Lampeter Community Fair.

Solanco swine show judge Cheryl Fairbairn, Chester County livestock agent, liked the middleweight champion. When it won middleweight division, Fairbairn praised the "wide-bodied" hog. At the supreme champion portion of the show, Fairbairn indicated that hogs "need to be able to move" and enjoyed the gilt's "stride." Fairbairn said the hog exhibited a "lot of loin and a lot of leanness."

Allison said she was "very surprised" when her name was called. Chet noted the hog literally "ran everywhere," and didn't need any exercise to get ready for the championship. He said the hog "ran across the road to the landlord's front yard" three times, so they didn't need to walk the hog.

Allison's best friend, Tiffany, won reserve champion on Thursday with her heavyweight champion, what Fairbairn noted was "longer than anything in the class here today." Tiffany, 11, daughter of Gary and Joan Dean, Strasburg, showed a 260-pound purebred Duroc barrow.

Tiffany, in the 5th grade at Hans Herr Elementary, said the hog, "Big Red," was purchased from John Conway, Newville. She said that the family exercise the show hogs about twice a week, simply running them around the pen. Tiffany will be showing hogs at West Lampeter Community Fair.

There were a total of about 50 exhibitors and 105 hogs. Following is a list of show placings.

Phil Durst

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Those of you who get the MUN option on your Pa. DHIA reports may have noticed a new column on your report-True Protein.

What is it and why is it there?

Milk protein, that has been and continues to be reported, is made up of true proteins like casein and whey proteins, along with forms of nitrogen that are not protein such as ammonia, urea, creatine, uric acid and others.

Only true proteins are useful in cheese production. For those of you who produce for a cheese market, keeping your eye on true protein will help you follow cheese yield for your milk.

Using The Numbers

Why is it reported here, and what relevance does it have for those of you who are not necessarily producing for a cheese market? True protein, along with MUN, can be used to monitor nutrition and the effects of changes in the ration.

Increases in dietary protein that increases MUN, but does not increase true protein is nonproductive.

Normal true protein for Holstein milk should be in the range of 2.80 — 3. Increases in protein due to mastitis will not be reflected in true protein increases. An increase in dietary rumen undegradable protein may increase true protein in the milk.

Remember, the recommended range for MUN is 10-14 for the group averages (in a group of at least eight animals). MUN is a measure of the efficiency of protein feeding for the cows.

If you have any questions, please call me. Admittedly, we have much to learn about using MUN and true protein to adjust rations to achieve the greatest efficiency, but working together and sharing information will help us all to learn!

Cousins Show Champion And Reserve Market Lambs At Solanco

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Two cousins swept champion and reserve market lamb titles at the Solanco Fair Sheep Show on Wednesday.

Champion Tiffany Dean and reserve champion Brent Landis answered in unison when asked the secret to their success.

"Brace it."

Brent illuminated the idea by adding. "You must make sure you brace it so the muscles get big when the judge touches it."

Both walk their lambs on a regular basis.

Although the champion exhibitors are related, the sheep were not. Brent purchased his Suffolk lamb from Lloyd Reiff of Strasburg and Tiffany purchased her crossbred from an Ohio breeder. She also has four breeding sheep.

The cousins have little opportunity to share much information with each other. "We don't see each other much, because I live in Quarryville and she lives in Strasburg," Brent said.

Tiffany, daughter of Gary Dean, has shown several champions at various fairs around the county. Brent has had two reserve champions at Solanco Fair.

Tiffany's 124-pound champion first won the light heavyweight title. She also showed the reserve champion light heavyweight. Ironically, Brent also showed both champion and reserve in the middleweight classes. It wasn't as if the two had no competition because 72 lambs were shown by 41 exhibitors.

The cousins' lambs faced tough competition in the showring in the final round. That was when champion and reserve lambs from each division faced each other.

Showing homebred lambs, John Schmidt, 14, clinched the lightweight championship and his sister Jessica, 15, the reserve. The siblings are the children of Pete and Laurie Schmidt of Drumore, where they raise 11 Dorsets and 5 Montadales. John's 92-pound champion Maria was mothered by Madlyn, the ewe from which Jessica obtains most of her show string. Jessica's 85-pound lightweight was a bottle-fed lamb named Speckles. In the few days preceding the show, Jessica sheared 18 sheep for exhibitors.

In the heavyweight division, April Leaman, another familiar face in the winner's circle showed the champion, and Debra Young the reserved champion.

April, daughter of David and Jackie Leaman of Willow Street, also took top showmanship honors over all classes. Jessica Schmidt earned the reserve champion spot. The two teens seem to alternate between the top two spots in numerous county showmanship competitions.

Club Holds Fall Classic

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — A Boutonniere daughter selling to James Bowman, New Enterprise, for $2,450 topped the numbers at the Fall Classic that the Somerset County Holstein Club held Aug. 28.

Calday Bout Showie, born Dec. 1, 1992, was consigned by True-Vine Holsteins in care of Philip Dayton, Ridgely, W. Va.

Mishlin Encore Dracula, born on Oct. 26, 1993 and consigned by Mark and Helen Mishler, Hollsopple, was purchased for $2,000 by Rico Sidone of Boswell, as the second highest selling consignment.

The sale total amounted to $65,575 for the 55 lots, Vera Yoder, statistician, said.

Nolan and Doretta Druist from Chambersburg and Emerald Fields Farms, Rockwood, were unwitting competitors for the premier buyer honors.

Druists peeled out the most money — $10,425 — for the six head they bought, while Emerald owners, Dave and Dianna Harris, divested their accounts of some $9,375 to take home seven head of good Holstein stock from the event.

The sale of three embryos in one lot at $400 each brought $1,200 for Hillmont Farms and Ron Kling, Berlin.

A baby calf barely 12 hours old went for $300, Yoder said.

After she tallied the averages, Yoder said the 23 milking cows averaged $1,568.45. Bred heifers averaged $1,257.81 for 16 head.

Calves under six months averaged $808.03 and those between six and thirteen months, or breeding age, averaged $908.33, she said.

Jill Fox, the wife of John Fox who co-chaired the event with Scott Foreman, said she was nominated to organize the decorations and spruce up the sale barn with mums, bows and a few frills.

Jill's mother, Sally Love, Somerset, agreed to handcraft a beautiful wreath which two area veterinarians bid to the hundred dollar mark, before the one from Grantsville, Md. got it.

"We ought to get a Holstein cow involved in this wreath," Jill told her mother beforehand.

With a bit of ingenuity, they did indeed bind the miniature bovine to the array of silk flowers and leaves attached to a grapevine.

Auctioneer Clark Yoder teamed up with Oren Bender on pedigrees to conduct the sale.

Larry Lohr and Rick Foreman kept things under control in the ring itself.

Chicken barbecue dinners, hot dogs, pie, and other goodies were sold by the Somerset County Junior Holstein Club to raise their financial balances.

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — The weather at the Franklin County Fair this summer may have been soggy, but it could not dampen the spirits of the Crider Family.

As Judge Chris Wood presided over the Holstein show, Antrim-Spring Farms took home the premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners for the second year in a row.

Senior champion and grand champion of the open show went to Meyers Bros. Dairy of St. Thomas for their 9-year-old Chief Mark daughter.

The reserve senior grand champion (open) and grand champion (youth) trophies were awarded to Justin Burdette of Mercersburg for his 5-year-old from the famous Pala cow. She was also named best bred and owned.

Emily Stuff showed her 2-year-old Pala daughter and won the reserve grand champion of the youth show.

register, as well as those intending to show their animals. Ownership of a dairy animal is not required.

White show clothes are requested. Registration is from 11:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., and the competition is to be in the Small Arena of the Complex.

Youth and adults intending to exhibit animals in any of the dairy shows arrive early to prepare their stalls and animals. The showmanship contest provides an opportunity for the youth to practice showmanship skills that will be needed in the ring.

However, youth who did not qualify for the state youth dairy show, those not intending to show, and those without animals are also invited to participate.

If youth bring their own animal just for the showmanship contest, it must meet and have proof of the PAADS health certification reqruirements before it will be allowed on the Farm Show premise.

Those youth without animals are welcomed to participate. All they have to do is find someone willing to lend the use of an animal for the contest.

Registration and entry is free, but contestants must provide their own show harness.

According to Lolly Lesher, an organizer of the PAADS, youth are to be divided into three age groups for the contest and the winner in each is to receive a $500 savings bond to be given in the memory of Roger T. Green, longtime friend of the dairy industry. The bonds were donated by the Centre County Holstein Club.

Other prizes include a set of cattle clippers donated by Richard Mellinger, and a director's chair donated by Scottdale Supply.

The three age groups are to be: juniors, ages 8-11; intermediates, ages 12-15; and seniors, ages 16-21.

The top 10 in the senior division are to also be invited to compete in a fitting contest, with each being assigned a heifer at random and have one hour to fit the heifer.

Each contestant is allowed one helper to block and hold the head of the animal. The helper isn't allowed to clip brush, coach or spray the animal.

Youth associations of four state colored breed organizations also have meetings and social times planned for Sunday evening.

At 5:30 p.m., the Pennsylvania Brown Swiss Junior Association has scheduled "A Brown Swiss Youth Happening."

At 6:30 p.m., the Pennsylvania Junior Guernsey Breeders have scheduled a meeting and a social.

The Pennsylvania Ayrshire Youth have a meeting and social set for 7 p.m.

The Pennsylvania Junior Jersey Association has scheduled a meeting, also for 7 p.m., Sunday. The members are to combine a pizza party with their meeting, to be held in Meeting Room C, on the second floor near the Farm Show office.

At the same time, a careers and opportunities social has been scheduled with representatives from at least six universities to be present to recruit potential students, and to advise on minimum academic and testing standards and opportunities for careers.

Starting at 8 p.m., dairy youth exhibitors are invited to participate in the "Junior Dairy Show Olympics," an event designed for fun and fellowship.

A country craft show begins at noon Sunday and remains open until 8 p.m. The craft show is to continue through the end of the PAADS, about 4 p.m., Thursday, with the crowning of the supreme champion of the six recognized dairy breeds — Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Holstein, Jersey and Milking Shorthorn.

Monday

While the state youth dairy show is to kick off promptly at 8 a.m., the Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest starts at the same time.

The 28th annual invitational contest is set to have 35 collegiate, 4-H and FFA teams competing, some teams from as far away as California.

An awards banquet is scheduled to be held at 7 p.m. that evening to recognize the top achievers.

A 7:30 p.m. in the Small Arena an Ayrshire Sale is to be held with top quality animals offered.

Tuesday

Tuesday has three dairy shows scheduled.

The morning starts out with the All-American Ayrshire Show starting at 9 a.m. in one half of the Large Arena, while the Pennsylvania Fall Championship Show gets underway in the other half.

The All-American Milking Shorthorn Show starts at 3 p.m.

All three shows are highlights of the showing circuit for the year.

Doug Murray of Toulan, Illinois, is to judge the Ayrshire show, while Sherry Kreppf of Fredericksburg, Ohio, is to judge the Milking Shorthorn Show. The judge of the Pennsylvania Fall Championship was not announced.

At 10 a.m., the Junior Dairy Management Contest starts. This year, the contest includes the promise that the top winner will receive a $1,000 prize.

According to a PAADS news release, Dr. Carl Brown, contest chairman, said, "The Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association will contribute the $1,000 award to recognize the knowledge and skill necessary to win this comprehensive contest. This is a tremendous addition, and a wonderful show to support."

In the same news release, David Smith, the executive secretary of the Pa. Dairymen's Association, said, "The association wants to support activities that promote and enhance the dairy industry. This is a top notch contest that really exemplifies the variety of skills and information dairy farmers must demonstrate to be successful."

Open to all 4-H and FFA members, the competition tests the contestants knowledge of heifer judging, linear trait and pedigree analysis, meats identification, grain and forage identification and nutrition, farm and food safety, dairy cow food and leg health, and farm business management.

After the morning competition, the top five finalists are to be interviewed by a panel of three judges representing the dairy industry. They are to be asked something to test their understanding of current issues in the dairy industry.

Sponsors also provide cash awards to the top 10 teams in the 4-H and FFA divisions, along with plaques, ribbons and trophies.

According to Lesher, last year there were 70 contestants. A strong showing is expected this year.

At the same time the the Junior Dairy Management Contest kicks off, so does the Pennsylvania 4-H and FFA Dairy Judging Forum, an educational program.

Wednesday

The National Guernsey Show is set to start promptly at 9 a.m., Wednesday, and it will share the Large Arena with the Eastern National Brown Swiss Show — two top quality shows.

Dennis Patrick, of Woodbine, Maryland, is to serve as judge for the National Guernsey Show, while Robert Fitzsimmons is to judge the Brown Swiss show.

At 5 p.m. Wednesday in the Dairy Activities Center, which is in the Northeast Building fo the Farm Show Complex, the All-American Buffet is to be held with special recognitions being made.

The buffet also serves as a preliminary for the Eastern National Holstein Sale which was organized slighlty different from previous sales.

According to Lesher, the sale was designed to highlight the daughters of some of the top 12 bulls in the breed. The daughters were selected to offer a good selection to the buyer looking to purchase high indexing animals, as well as the buyer looking for high type.

The sale starts at 7 p.m. and is managed by the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

The last day of PAADS is truly the climax of the week, starting out with the Eastern National Holstein Show (animals entered in the Pennsylvania Fall Championship are automatically eligible) and the Mid-Atlantic Regional Jersey Show.

There is no fee to attend the event and parking is free. The PAADS is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industry Association in cooperation with the Pennsyvlania Department of Agriculture and the Farm Show Commission.

Mummerts Host Farm-City Festival

corn at the end of the farm lane to Yellow Buttercup Farm about 10 years ago.

"Within a year the product line expanded and Grandma moved the stand under a large maple shade tree on the farm," she said.

The business grew and when the Twin Maple Farm, home to sulky racing for nearly 35 years, was put on the market, the Mummerts bought it and began to grow produce on the land. What was a two-acre race track is now a strawberry field, Yvonne said.

The 18th century brick-end barn was restored and now serves as the market sales room. Open from May to October, many different seasonal fruits and vegetables and some gift items are available in the market.

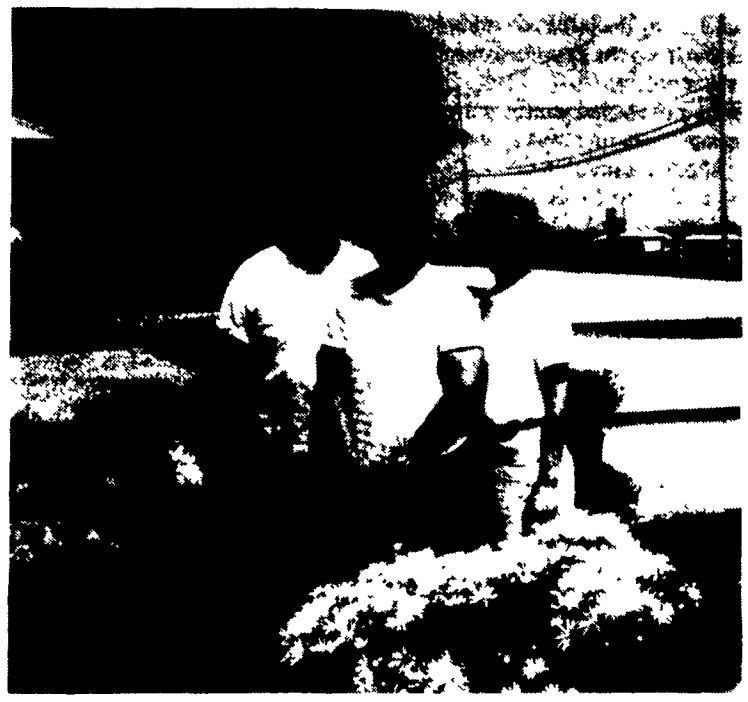
The festival and open house provides the visitor with educational information on crop production, nutrition, and operation of a farm, a wagon ride tour of the farm to see how soil erosion is prevented and water quality protected, an exhibit of farm machinery of today and yesteryear, and a visit with the Mummerts to learn how a dairy farm operates.

Scheduled all day long are carriage rides, educational displays, food, farm tours, musical entertainment, and an antique tractor display.

The event is cosponsored by Adams County Farm-City Day Committee, Adams County Farm Bureau, Kiwanis Club of Historic Gettysburg, Gettysburg/Adams County Area Chamber of Commerce, Upper Adams Jaycees, and various agribusinesses, agencies, and organizations.

For more information, call (717) 334-6271 or (717) 334-0636.

Martha Snyder of East Berlin, Yvonne Mummert's grandmother, is responsible for starting Buttercup Farm Market. She and her grandson, Ladd Mummert, began selling sweet corn at the end of the farm lane to Yellow Buttercup Farm, the Mummert's dairy farm. Grandma Snyder remains an active member of the family business.



Larry, Yvonne, and Lela Mummert stand among a display of chrysanthemums outside of Buttercup Farm Market, recently opened by the family along Route 194 near East Berlin to sell seasonal produce. In background is Yellow Buttercup Farm, the dairy farm owned and operated by the family. It is opened to the public today for Adams County Farm-City Day.

sity and the Holstein cattle industry. Snider and his family own and operate a 1,250-acre crop and dairy farm.

A past national board member of Holstein, USA, Snider serves as an officer on the National Holstein Foundation. He is a member of the National Dairy Shrine Club and past president of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

An accomplished judge, he has judged many state and national shows, including shows in Mexico, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Venezuela, and Colombia.

Snider's long-standing association with Penn State includes serving as president of the board of trustees in 1985, 1986, and 1987. He was elected to the board of trustees in 1979 by delegates from the agricultural societies. He serves on the National Development Council and is a member of the Mount Nittany Society, Gamma Sigma Delta, and Alpha Zeta.

"The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show is grateful for Snider's time and devotion to developing a premier showcase for dairy cattle genetic progress. His vision and leadership has benefited not only the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, but the entire dairy industry," said Judy Black, chairperson of the selection committee.

Bo Joy Farm Wins Top Brown Swiss Honors

CYNTHIA WARNER
President, Md. Brown Swiss Association

TIMONIUM, Md. — The Brown Swiss show once again made a strong presentation at the Maryland State Fair held on Sunday, August 31, 1997 in Timonium, Md. The quality of the approximately 110 head shown ran deep in all classes, as was true in the fourth Mid Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity. Well-known Holstein breeder and Judge, Curtis Day, Shippensburg, Pa. did the honors of lining up the classes for the day.

Bob, and his son, Stever Wagner of Quarryville, Pa. brought a real quality showstring of cows. They captured the grand champion honor for the day, as well as exhibiting the Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity winner. Steve, and his show crew had the cows looking great, and they were rewarded in the showring as they stood in the winners circle during the cow classes.

A very correct, and well-balanced Jr. 3-year-old with a beautiful, well-attached udder took the judges eye and was named the intermediate champion and went on to be named the grand champion of the show by Judge Day. Bo Joy Ensign Gredel, owned and exhibited by the Wagners was a real crowd pleaser, and wore her grand champion honors well.

Receiving the reserve grand champion rosette went to an outstanding aged cow who is no stranger to the show ring, Kinderkay Jade Cherisse ET, exhibited by George Wm. Smith III, Frederick Md., and Douglas King, Damascus, Md. Cherisse was the grand champion cow at the 1995 and 1996 Maryland State Fair. Highlighting the Brown Swiss Show at the Maryland State Fair was the "fourth" annual Mid Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity. There were 10 impressive 2-year-olds paraded around the "Cow Palace."

It was a great day for the Wagner family of Quarryville, Pa. as they had the grand champion cow, and also won the Futurity class with a beautiful Sr. 2-year-old, Bo Joy Pretus Cami. She displayed the dairyness, balance, and stature, along with an exceptional udder that Judge Day was looking for to start the Futurity class. She is sired by Top Acres Combo Pretus ET, and her dam is Long View Jade Carrie. "Cami" also went on to be named the reserved intermediate champion of the show. This was the second time a Pennsylvania breeder has won the Futurity class. The first Futurity was won by Gary Mase, Lebanon, Pa. with Meadow Hill Jade Alice ET, who was third in the 5-year-old class at this year's show.

To begin this year's event, a parade of Dairy Royalty, jr. champions of the heifer classes, and a Brown Swiss displaying the Futurity banner circled the ring accompanied by Swiss yodeling music. Leading the parade was a pair of huge Swiss oxen, named "Homer and Albert." They are 12 years old, and each weighs in at about 3000 pounds. They make several appearances at fairs and community shows, and are owned and handled by Ernie Jackson, Frederick, Md.

The Futurity class was the beginning of the production classes. With a capacity crowd around the ring, Master Of Ceremonies, Denny Remsburg introduced each entry. "With the quality and caliber of Brown Swiss exhibited at the Maryland State Fair, the Mid Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity is becoming a very prestigious and competitive event for breeders in Maryland and surrounding states," said Cindy Warner, Chairman of the Futurity Committee. "In fact, it is recognized as a qualifying show for the All-American contest." When each cow is entered as a calf, owners dream and hope they have bred the best one to develop into the best 2-year-old cow to win the Futurity.

Prize money is generated by the nomination fees and from industry supporters. For the fourth year, the winning Futurity animal received a $300 check, and a large authentic Swiss cow bell, with a leather strap decorated with wool fringes and metal ornaments.

Besides prize money, there were other awards presented to recognize outstanding accomplishments in the Futurity class.

They were:

Best Bred & Owned went to Steve Wagner with Bo Joy Pretus Cami. He received a stained glass shield with the Swiss emblem. She was also the winner of the 1997 Futurity.

Genetic Merit Award went to Top Acres MAC Preminent ET, exhibited by Doug Dell, Westminster, Md. He received a hand-carved wooden plate with a painted chalet and cow in the Alps. She was also the 10th place animal.

Overall Jr. Winner went to Shen-Val Aytola Mandy, exhibited by Jeremy McDonald, Stephens City, Va. He received a smaller authentic Swiss cow bell. She was also the second place animal.

Top Maryland Jr. Winner went to Wind Mill Tradit Marmalade, exhibited by Jarrod Burall, New Windsor, Md. He received a hand-carved Swiss man and cow that is painted. She was also the sixth place animal.

Top placings for the 1997 Mid Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity are:

First place was Bo Joy Pretus Cami, owned by Steve Wagner, Quarryville, Pa.

Second place went to Shen-Val Aytola Mandy, owned by Jeremy McDonald of Stephens City, Va.

Third place went to Viking Pride Chall Marisa, owned by Michael Kunkle, Jonestown, Pa.

Premier breeder and exhibitors were Allen and Tammy Bassler. From left, Jami Payne, Gary Bassler, Tammy and Allen, and Brian Payne.

New Computers Purchased

JAY MYLIN
Manager

Lancaster DHIA Field Technicians were recently updated with new computers, modems and printers. The upgrading of equipment was necessary to maximize the data entry for PCDART 6.2 for Technicians recently released in the field by Raleigh Processing Center. These Pentium 75 computers have 1 gig hard drive with 16 MEG of ram and should serve our needs well.

The old 286 Bondwell computers served us well but lack the speed and power to handle the new software program available to our members.

Lancaster DHIA serves southeastern Pennsylvania. For information on our services call the office at (717) 665-5960.

DHIA MANAGEMENT TIPS

Milk production in Lancaster DHIA herds continues to be higher than last summer. In August milking cows averaged 64.7 lbs. of milk at 189 days in milk. This is up 4.5 lb. since August 1996. While production is up, the milk price is $2.41 lower ($12.23). Cost to feed a milking cow is $3.45 per day. This cost includes market value for home raised forages and grains. Income over feed cost for milking cows averages $4.34 a day per cow. This is $.85 a day per cow less than August 1996. Even the higher production cannot generate enough income to offset the lower milk price. The average M.U.N. for August was 14.8.

THE BEST TIRES IN THE WORLD HAVE GOODYEAR WRITTEN ALL OVER THEM

Ben's Wish For A Tractor Comes True

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

HAVRE de GRACE, Md. — Like many young farmers, Ben Keyes had often dreamed of having his very own tractor.

"Anything that has wheels, I like," says Ben, with a wide grin.

Ben's parents, David and Kelly Keyes, operate Mt. Felix dairy farm, high on a hill above the town of Havre de Grace, where the Susquehanna River flows into the Chesapeake Bay. Working around the farm and the equipment has always been a favorite way for 12-year-old Ben to spend his time.

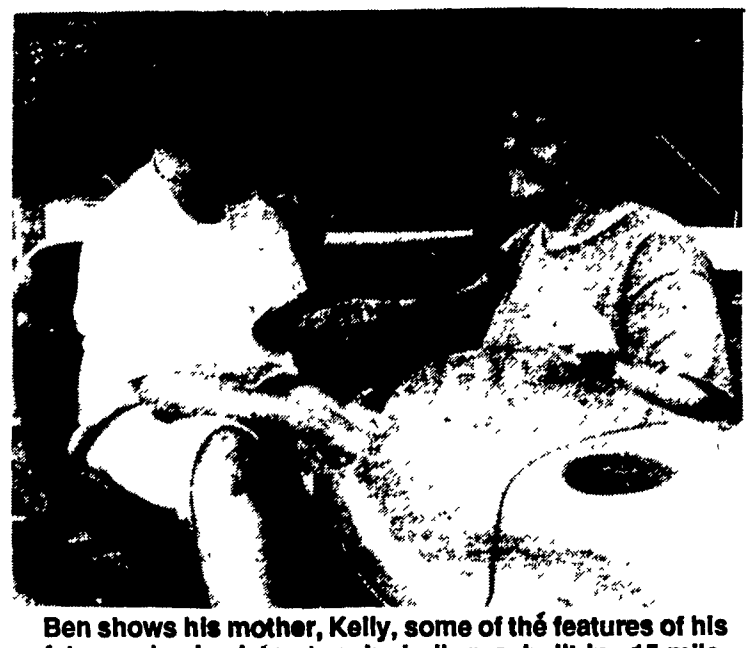
Nearly two years ago, Ben was diagnosed with cancer in his left leg. Chemotherapy and surgery did not stop the cancer's spread and in July 1996, Ben's leg was amputated above his knee. He quickly adapted to crutches and a prosthetic, more commonly known as an artificial leg. But his favorite method of transportation to the barn, which is rather a long distance from the house, became the family's six-wheeled, John Deere Gator, a sort of cross between a golf cart and a mini-pick-up truck.

Even more than the Gator, though, Ben enjoyed the occasional chance his dad gave him to drive one of the farm tractors. It became Ben's dream to have his own tractor.

Ben had some extra time to think about that dream in the last year, while recuperating from several more surgeries at Johns Hopkins Children's Center for cancer nodules in his lungs. So, when the Make-A-Wish foundation asked him early in January of this year if he had a special wish, Ben knew exactly what it would be.

Ben Keyes on his Make-A-Wish dream come true: a Model 1925 Ford New Holland Boomer tractor.

Megan Keyes' 4-H heifer, Sue, which she recently exhibited at the Harford County Fair, was a birthday-Easter gift from her brother Ben. He bought the calf with money earned from his last year's 4-H project pigs.



Ben shows his mother, Kelly, some of the features of his safety-emphasized tractor, including a built-in, 15-mile-per-hour speed limitation.

"I'd like to have a tractor," Ben told Grace Ann Moore of the Make-A-Wish organization.

That was a wish that took a while to accomplish. But in early June, the Keyes family received a letter telling them that Make-A-Wish had found Ben his tractor. He even visited the New Holland plant in Lancaster County, for a hands-on introduction to the kind of tractor he had in mind. He had no idea, though, when his wish would come true.

Meanwhile, Ben was busy helping other kids with health problems. He was invited to be one of three area ambassadors for the Children's Miracle Network and take part in its annual telethon to raise funds for the Hopkins Children's Center. Part of that job was to attend public events, like sporting activities, and tell the audiences and spectators about the Children's Miracle Network.

Another part of the ambassador responsibility was to appear on television during the telethon, held the first weekend of June, and help to accept the contributions sent in by supporters. When the 21-hour telethon was over, the group had raised more than $2 million for the Center.

In April Ben attended the Eastern Shore Showcase Sale of Holstein cattle. One October-born heifer calf came through the sale that he particularly liked, so he bid on and purchased her, using some of the money he had earned from the sale of his 4-H pigs last summer. After the sale, Ben decided that the heifer would make a good combined birthday and Easter gift for his 10-year-old sister, Megan, so he transferred "Sue" to Megan's name for her to show in her third year of 4-H.

On July 4, Ben got a preview of driving the tractor he dreamed about when the 4-H Dairy Club put a float in the Havre de Grace Independence Day parade. Ben got to drive the tractor pulling the wagon through the streets of town. He figured the blue tractor pulling a red wagon was appropriate for a parade's salute to the nation's birthday. On the tractor were posters from the Keyes family, thanking the community for its support for Ben and for fundraising efforts toward his medical needs. The float won first place.

Megan showed her Sue, at the Harford County Fair's dairy show in early August, while Ben had raised two pigs for projects. He had named his pigs Ron and Linda, after two of the staff members at Johns Hopkins Children's Center. But at the weigh in, Ron was a few pounds over the pig class limit and did not qualify to show.

One of the classes Ben showed Linda in was for swine showmanship. When the judge had him switch pigs with another 4-H meber, the other pig accidentally ran into Ben and knocked him down. Despite the accident, Ben still won a fourth place ribbon in a large class of showman.

The day of the fair's livestock sale, Ben was puzzled when he was called into the ring before the start of the sale. Then he spied a bright, shiny blue tractor — his Make-A-Wish dream. Ben was so surprised and touched that he broke into tears. So did everyone else around the auction arena who watched as Ben climbed up onto the seat of his wish-come-true. In addition to many friends, neighbors, and relatives of the Keyes family, several of the Johns Hopkins Children's Center doctors and nurses came to help surprise Ben.

During the 4-H sale which followed, Ben sold his pig, Linda. She weighed 244 pounds and brought a final bid of $7.75 per pound. The buyer was Richard Crouse, Crouse Construction.

(Turn to Page B3)

Ben Keyes, left, was one of three Baltimore-area ambassadors for the annual Children's Miracle Network telethon, which raised over $2 million for Johns Hopkins Children's Center. With Ben are ambassadors Vinnie Iuliano, center, Lakeisha Ojo, and Baltimore-area television newscasters Mary Beth Marsden and Stan Stovall.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

Dublin, who had also bought Ben's 4-H pig at last year's sale.

A special pig that was donated as a surprise fund-raiser for Ben was also auctioned during the 4-H sale. It sold for $8 per pound to John Ryder's Real Estate.

Project pig Ron was later sold at the local Aberdeen Livestock Auction. Ben donated the proceeds from Ron to a fund that had been set up for the children of Jim Miller, a neighboring dairyman killed earlier this year in a farm accident. Jim Miller had been active in helping with fund-raising for Ben and was a long-time friend and supporter of area 4-H'ers and agriculture activities in Harford County.

Ben's dream tractor is a Model 1925 Ford New Holland Boomer.

"It's a boomer. It rocks," he quips of the new machine sitting in a pasture next to the house, its shiny blue paint glinting in the fall sunshine. As a safety measure, the tractor's speed is limited to a maximum 15 miles-per-hour and Ben never fails to fasten the Boomer's seat belt.

The 34-horsepower, three-cylinder Boomer came equipped with four-wheel drive and both rear and mid-mount power take-off. It has an automatic transmission industrial weight tires for better, safer grip and an extra step was added for his ease in mounting the seat. Still on order are cruise control, a toolbox, and a shiny new slow-moving-vehicle sign.

Walter G. Coales, Inc. equipment dealership at Churchville, especially owner Ray Bent and sales representative Walter Johnson, worked closely with Make-A-Wish to surprise Ben with his tractor. New Holland North America company helped to provide the Boomer and make sure that it arrived from the Midwest in time for the surprise presentation.

As an extra surprise, friends presented Ben with a roll-guard roof and a six-foot finishing mower for his "wish" tractor. He now does most of the mowing and trimming at the Keyes farm, as well as mowing jobs for friends and neighbors. And he is already eyeing a purchase of a front-end loader for the Boomer. A dairy steer that he is now raising, a gift of dairyman David Crowl, may help boost Ben's loader fund.

Another lung surgery has been delayed while Ben is undergoing radiation treatments to his right leg. Between those treatments, Ben keeps his Boomer busy, looks after his dairy steer, lends a hand with milking occasionally and helps with mixing the herd's feed rations and washing the milking parlor. With schools back in session, he is keeping up with his classes through home studies. This summer, he helped to coach the Havre de Grace Little League's T-ball team for 5- and 6-year-old ballplayers, under the guidance of his former coach.

Most of all, though Ben loves to be out in the fresh air and fields of Mt. Felix farm, enjoying life behind the steering wheel of his wish-come-true. And Ben Keyes' interest in farming and tractors continues to "boom."

When he's not outside, Ben enjoys getting mail and hearing from other kids and adults. You can drop a note to Ben Keyes at 2028 Level Road, Havre de Grace, MD, 21078.

Good grief. Can it be? Already?

Fall starts this week. Well, officially, anyway.

Our half-crop of corn around the farmstead has vanished, chopped for silage, save one small strip above the house on the steep terrace, being left for shelling with the combine. In the wake of the stalk-gobbling chopper, the hillsides look strangely barren. But right behind the choppers went the drill, sowing emergency-plantings of fall oats and rye, topped with a coating of liquid manure for moisture — and prayers for continuing rain to make it grow and provide more winter forage.

While it was still dark early last Friday morning, I stepped outside on the porch and breathed in a heavenly fragrance: that of damp ground and foggy air. The rains had indeed come, not enough to replenish the dwindling ground water, but at least enough to push the oats and encourage a late cutting of alfalfa and emergency plantings of sudan grass. How wonderful that fragrance of moisture, truly the perfume of life.

And all around us, the signs of the season flourish.

"Hurry, hurry," they seem to urge.

Almost overnight, neighboring soybean fields began yellowing, a sign of maturity, as the leaves dry down before dropping off. Most are about half their normal height, with erratic set of beans in the pods due to the drought.

Our maples have been shedding leaves for some weeks now, and the volume littering the porch floor picks up each day. Near the top of one of our massive, beloved maple trees, another sign of the season was revealed recently as a storm tossed the branches. Securely hanging way above the ground is a huge, egg-shaped hornets' nest, so large that it would have required the whole season to be constructed.

I hope it drops intact. I also hope it waits until cold weather, when the builders have abandoned it. Empty-nest-syndrome is highly desirable when it relates to hornets' nests.

One beautiful Peace rose opened a few days ago at the end of a long cane waving out over the lower yard border. The Farmer suggested that it was officially the last rose of summer. Apparently not, because a few more have since bloomed. Our roses have been few and far between, with summer's heat and extreme dryness, and these beauties are helping make amends.

Calving pace is picking up in the mother-to-be pens, another sign of fall. We seem to have had more than our share of bull calves these past months, but the birth of several little bovine girls may be telling of a change in that trend. Annuals are covering themselves with blooms, hurrying to fill their quotas of seed production. Zinnia, salvia, cockscomb and tithonia keep churning out blossoms so quickly that it's hard to keep the fading ones removed. The Italian, cutting sunflowers not lopped off for bouquets find a second life as squirrel and gold finch feed. A small basketful of the tiny heads of seed left set on the basement porch emptied almost overnight as the squirrels carted them off, some to nibble and some to scatter around the yard.

The vegetable garden is fading, except for the thriving tomatoes, bell peppers that finally set fruit after the rains and two hills of cucumbers planted in a gamble against early frost. Melon withdrawal will soon begin, after we devour the last juicy bites from the few lingering cantaloupes and two honeydews still hanging on the vines. Their low-calorie sweetness will be sadly missed, though pears, apples and fresh cider from nearby farm markets will help fill the void.

Chilly mornings send the flies that hang around the calf barn to the ceiling, where they make easy targets for the flyspray fogger — if I remember to use it. Usually it comes to mind at afternoon feeding, when the late afternoon sun pours in and reactivates these pests, which then hover about the body warmth given off by us people. While summer's end seems a sort of sad time, the demise of the flies is reason enough for rejoicing.

And, the house is festooned with the usual early-fall wallhangings, courtesy of our resident house spiders. The cooler the weather grows, the faster they tack up webs. Maybe it's their way of keeping warm. If we could teach the spiders to weave their webs in the calf barn — and snag for dinner those pesty flies — we'd have a win-win situation.

So, celebrate fall. Install a spider web. Take a fly to lunch.

Greenhouse Short Course

HOLLIDAYSBURG (Blair Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension Service announces the upcoming program, "Greenhouse Short Course."

Well-marketed greenhouse businesses have the potential to provide substantial incomes to trained operators. This four-day program has been designed to train new greenhouse operators and update the skills of those presently running greenhouse businesses in the full-range of practices required to successfully produce and market high quality greenhouse products.

Overall program emphasis is on practices that directly relate to plant production. Topics will include heating and ventilation systems, water sources, growing media and soil mixes, crop scheduling, insect and disease management, and more.

One-day follow-up programs in poinsettia, bedding plants and fall blooming plant production are planned for the future to build on the skills learned in this workshop.

The "Greenhouse Short Course" will be held on four consecutive Wednesdays, October 1, 8, 15 and 22 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Arena Restaurant in Bedford. The cost of the entire program is $85 per participant. This price includes lunch and snacks each day and the short course manual.

Preregistration is required and the size of the class is limited. Certificate of completion provided. For registration forms or more information, contact Steve Bogash, Blair County Cooperative Extension, (814) 693-3265. Registration forms are also available at the Bedford, Fulton, Cambria, and Somerset cooperative extension offices.

Making Allowances Work

Children aren't born knowing how to ride a bicyble, but they can learn. Neither are children born knowing how to manage money. Nevertheless, there are many ways we can teach them how to manage money, and one very effective way is with an allowance. They can learn the value of money and how far it will go, they can learn to save, and they can learn to invest. When you give your children an allowance, keep in mind the goals you are trying to achieve.

Young children can learn early that you have to pay for that candy bar or toy if you allow them to hand the money to the cashier. Kids may assume that money is something that comes in an unlimited supply from a bank. If they only see you making withdrawals at the ATM machine, what should they think? If you say you don't have enough money for a toy they want, they may tell you to get some from that machine that hands out money. Or maybe you should just write a check or use the credit card so you can get what they want. Letting them see you make deposits into a savings or checking account as well as withdrawals can help them understand the whole process better.

One woman told me that one day her father brought the paycheck home in cash. He gathered the family around the table and counted out how much of goes to pay the rent and put that amount in one pile. He put in another pile the amount needed to pay the electric bill. He did the same for food, insurance, the car payment, and all the other bills. When he was done, he showed them what was left for discretionary expenses. This provided a very visual way to show that finances can be tight. It can make it easier to explain why you cannot buy everything you might like to for your children. Although this could have been done with play money, using cash was more dramatic.

To encourage savings, provide the younger child with a see through plastic container of some type. This will allow them to watch the accumulation of coins as well as to feel the weight. Older children can put their money into a savings account at a bank and watch the interest grow.

Around age five, you can start giving your children a small allowance. Discuss what the money should be used for. At that age they should not be expected to buy their own clothing, for example, but they might use it for toys, gifts, or snacks. As they get older and able to earn money on their own, the uses of the allowance will change.

How much should the allowance be? This depends on the family's economic circumstances and value system, the age of the child, and the going rate among the child's peers.

Should the allowance be tied to performing certain chores? Chores are a responsibility as a member of the household. After all, who pays you as a parent for doing the cooking, cleaning, laundry, home repair, car repair or delivering kids to activities? You do it because you are a member of the household. For the same reason children can be expected to do certain tasks because they too are a member of the household. Each member of the household has certain responsibilities. If you establish a payment amount for each specific task such as cleaning the bedroom, washing the dishes or setting the table, what happens if you ask the child to take out the garbage? You are likely to be asked how much you will pay. And it may not be enough to tear the child away from a favorite television program.

Other tasks may be beyond the basic responsibility as a member of the household. Help with painting the house or some other special project may warrant some type of additional pay.

For big ticket items like a tricycle that can't be funded by savings out of an allowance, consider matching an amount the child saves. After their savings reaches a certin amount, you can kick in the rest.

What happens if their allowance runs out before the week does? Should you consider a loan? Maybe the first time this happens, but it should be accompanied by a warning that this cannot happen again. By giving an advance, you defeat the purpose of the child's learning just how far the allowance will go.

The allowance is an excellent tool for teaching children about money management. And because children learn by example, it is a way to take another look at what you are teaching them by how you handle your own money.

Honey Sweetens The Menu

Honey and bees are more than a passing fancy for Pennsylvania Honey Queen Jamie Fisher. She is majoring in microbiology and assisting with honey bee research in the entolmology department as a sophormore at Penn State University.

As the daughter of Sandy and Paul Fisher of Cherry Valley Apiaries in Stroudsburg, Jamie grew up working with bees and honey. Many of today's recipes are from the honey queen.

Honey is produced in every state in the U.S., according to Dr. Dewey Caron, cooperative extension apiculturist at the University of Delaware.

The average bee colony yields about 66 pounds of honey annually, Per capita consumption is a little over one pound annually. Honey is used in a wide variety of foods as well as in personal products and medications.

Honey bees may travel as much as 55,000 miles and visit more than two million flowers to gather enough nectar to make one pound of honey.

Composed primarily of fructose, glucose, and water, honey also contains trace enzymes, minerals and amino acids. Because of its high fructose content, honey is 33 percent sweeter than granulated sugar and contains fewer calories for this sweetening power.

Tonight Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Angela Marie Werley plans to crown her successor at the annual Dairy Princess Pageant held at the Sheraton Harrisburg East.

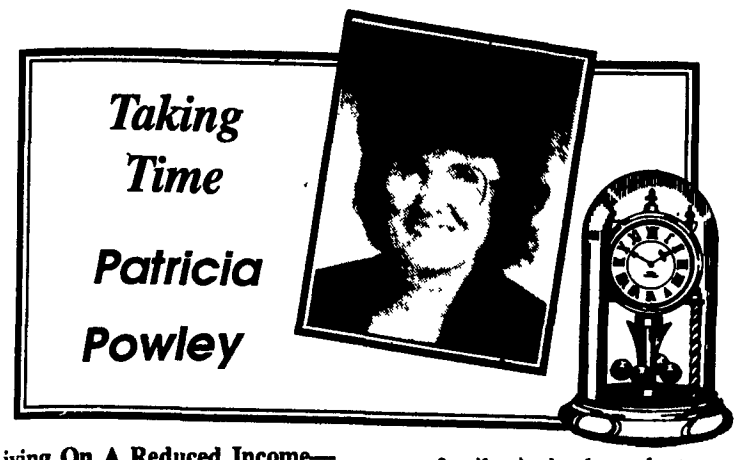
Although Angela no longer will hold the official crown, she plans to continue spreading the message that milk and dairy products contain many nutrients important to your family's health. Staying fit, she said, means eating right and using lots of real dairy products.

Here is one of her favorite recipes that she serves to her parents Philip and Donna Werley and siblings Melissa, Pamela, and Matthew.

ORANGE CREAM FRUIT SALAD

20-ounce can pineapple tidbits
11-ounce can mandarin oranges
1 medium apple, chopped
½ cup milk
¾ cup sour cream
16-ounce can peach slices
2 medium bananas, sliced
1 small package instant vanilla pudding
½ cup frozen orange juice concentrate

Drain all juices from fruit. Put all fruit in bowl. Mix pudding, milk, orange juice, and sour cream with hand mixer for about 2 minutes. Pour over fruit and mix. Chill for one hour and enjoy.



Living On A Reduced Income— Meeting Your Insurance Needs

When your income changes, review your insurance coverage. If your income decreases because of a layoff, illness, disability or premature death, your family may find it extremely difficult to pay insurance premiums. If you are not able to make a payment, determine your minimum needs for insurance. Then, call or write the company to check into a different payment plan that allows you to keep your coverage. Or, investigate plans with lower premiums.

Insurance is the primary way you protect yourself against financial loss caused by illness, accidents and other destructive or damaging events. Through insurance you pool your risk with others. You pay (or your employer pays for you) a premium to an insurance company that in return pays for the damaging effects of a large loss if it occurs.

For some risks, you may decide to accept or share the risk. Savings, instead of insurance or maintenance contracts, could be used to pay a variety of unexpected expenses such as burial expenses and repair of major equipment. Using deductibles (the amount of money you agree to pay per claim before the insurance company pays for a loss) is a way to share risk. If you are married, another way to share risk is to make sure both spouses are employable so your family isn't dependent on only one income.

Consider minimizing your risks. Although you can't eliminate risk from your life, you can postpone, minimize or control some losses. For example, wear your seatbelt and don't drive during bad weather to reduce your chances for liability in an accident.

Health Insurance

Most people rely on employer group health insurance to ease the burden of medical costs. If you no longer have a job, some alternatives exist.

Group policies may allow you to continue coverage for a limited time following job termination. For example, you may be covered for an additional 30 days after your last working day. If you find a new job within 30 days, you could have continuous group coverage. Talk with the person responsible for employee benefits at your former place of employment about your coverage.

If your spouse is employed, check out the possibility of being covered on your spouse's group health insurance. See if and when your spouse could add you to coverage through his/her employer. Many employers or other groups have limited "open enrollment" periods.

Life Insurance

If you have life insurance, try not to let it lapse if others are dependent on your income or wage-earning capacity. Your policy could be expensive to replace later. Life insurance protects your dependents against loss of income or expenses because of your untimely death. If you no longer have dependents, you may want to cash in your whole life policy when your income decreases.

You may have had group term life insurance through an employer. This is pure protection without a cash value or savings feature. If you are uninsurable elsewhere, you may want to convert your former employer's group plan into an individual policy. Check with your employer about converting the policy.

Automobile Insurance

Most people can't assume the financial burden of a major automobile accident. Therefore, no one should drive without adequate insurance. Otherwise you are risking financial disaster and the loss of your license.

One way to reduce automobile insurance premiums if your car isn't new is to increase the deductibles for comprehensive and collision or drop these coverages. Consider dropping collision coverage if the car's value is so low you could assume the loss yourself or if the repairs will cost more than the car is worth.

Homeowner's Insurance

Most homeowner's policies protect you from loss of property and legal liability. If you try to save money by lowering premium costs, beware of underinsuring. Check your policy to see that it will rebuild your house and replace your possessions at today's prices.

Recent Health Findings Enhance Milk Image

TOWSON, Md. — With popular "got milk?" television commercials, "Where's your mustache?" magazine campaigns, and the regional "That Milk Thing" campaign, consumers continue to be reminded how important it is to include milk in their daily diets. However, over the past several months, three milk-friendly health industry advances have enabled the dairy industry to highlight milk's benefits even more in local and national media coverage. These three advances include the recent increase in recommended calcium intake levels, some positive findings in a recent lactose intolerance study, and the addition of the American Heart Association's (AHA) Heart-Healthy Seal on fat-free and lowfat milk.

Recently, the National Academy of Sciences released new Adequate Intake (AI) guidelines for calcium. According to these new AI recommendations, adults ages 19-50 need at least 1,000 mg of calcium daily, up from the old RDA of 800 mg per day. Teenagers and adults over 50 need even more — a recommended 1,300-mg and 1,200 mg per day respectively. Dairy industry communicators are actively pursuing national and local press to incorporate a "food first" message in any releases about the new guidelines, reminding consumers that milk and dairy products are the best natural source of calcium.

In addition to the increased need for calcium, consumers will also be reminded about milk's heart-healthy benefits because of the collaborative efforts of Milk-PEP (the Milk Processors Federation) and the American Heart Association (AHA). Thanks to their efforts, all fat free and ½ percent lowfat milks will now boast AHA's red Heart Healthy Symbol, signifying to consumers that both of these products meet AHA's nutrition guidelines for fat, saturated fat, and cholesterol levels in a well-balanced diet.

Milk triumphed in a lactose intolerance study conducted earlier this year. The major finding of this study published in the May 1997 American Journal of Clinical Nutrition showed that most people who thought they were lactose intolerant were able to enjoy two cups of milk daily — one with breakfast and another several hours later with dinner — without experiencing any symptoms. This study followed up on earlier research that showed people thought to be extremely lactose intolerant could drink at least one cup of milk a day with little or no digestive discomfort.

QUESTION — Betty Jakum, Litttlestown, writes that she has successfully made sauerkraut for more than 15 years. However, this year, the cabbage she shredded and salted in a crock stopped fermenting after only one week. The mixture has not gone bad, but it has a different consistency and only a hint of the yellow color of sauerkraut and not much taste. Does anyone know what she had done wrong? She used pickling salt and placed a weighted plastic bag on top of the mixture. Perhaps some of the water in the bag leaked out, she drained off the excess water, but it hasn't helped. Any suggestions on how to save this batch?

QUESTION — Carl Schintzel, Rockaway, N.J., remembers his mother used to make seasoned rice with cubed pieces of veal in it, which cooked all day on a wood or coal range. For yogurt, when she buys acidophilus cultures can she substitute 2 tablespoons homemade yogurt for the next batch?

Does anyone make sharp cheddar cheese in the home? If so, please send explicit instructions.

She clipped out the recipe but has been unable to find the required packaged mustard or honey dijon dry salad mix. She would like to know where to purchase it. Readers, I know there is also a recipe that doesn't required the dry mix. Does anyone have it?

NEW VARIETIES FOR 1998

Gardeners are looking for new plants every year. Here are new flowers and vegetables that are featured in 1998 mail order seed catalogs, seed packets or as bedding plants at garden centers. This is the second in a series.

Heliotrope arborescens 'Midnight & Twilight' are two new Heliotrope hybrids, Midnight and Twilight offer a vastly improved seed quality, in addition to improvements in uniformity and overall plant quality. 'Midnight,' the more compact of the two attains a height of only 10-12 inches while 'Twilight' reaches 14-16 inches.

Impatiens 'Cajun Series' have a unique habit which keeps them from becoming leggy in the garden, even in heat and humidity. They make beautiful hanging baskets and containers, holding their shape longer for the homeowner. New colors are Watermelon, a brilliant neon rose, and Salmon.

Impatiens 'Dazzler® Apricot Improved' produced an abundance of intensely colored, apricot orange blooms with slightly darker eyes. Excellent in the garden the compact, uniform plants flower freely until first frost.

Impatiens 'ShowStopperCherry' is a free-flowing, rich rose red variety with a branching habit. It provides superb performance in morning sun or partial shade all day long. Ideal for hanging baskets, pots and gardens.

Impatiens 'Super Elfin® Sunrise' is a unique new color combination for impatiens — the flowers have salmon orange centers with purple edges. Better branching and improved flower power give this impatiens high consumer appeal.

Impatiens 'Tempo Punch' has a warm scarlet/carmine flower that shines against its light green foliage. Plants are easy to grow and reach a garden height of 8 to 12 inches.

Impatiens Temp 'Watermelon' produces a large 1.5 to 2-inch flower that is a watermelon color with a soft cherry eye center. Plants are easy to grow and reach a garden height of 8 to 12 inches.

Impatiens 'Wild Blue Yonder' is a new species type with large lavender flowers and dark green, long narrow leaves that are reminiscent of rhododendrons or hellebores. Big, bold, shrub-like plants with succulent, thick stems grow 24-36" tall. Exotic look for shady gardens or containers.

Drums, Dance Fill The Forest At Honoring Festival

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — In the distance, beyond the trees, I could hear the drums.

At first, I thought only of entering the place out of simple curiosity. I mean, how many chances do you get to go to a real Native American ceremony? Certainly there was something of the mysterious and otherworldly about the event.

Before I left, I learned a great deal about a culture and a way of life beyond my world, including things experienced at this Lenape Honoring Festival, that some of us never get to see and understand.

More than 3,000 people came to the Myrick Conservation Center in Pocopson Township, Chester County, to experience the fourth annual festival, held this past weekend. (The Lenape are also known as the Delaware, I learned).

Getting there turned out to be an experience enough, however. First, my family left late on the hour-long drive. And the Myrick Conservation Center is not clearly marked on any maps — yet resides deep in the Pocopson woods off Rt. 842.

But we found it, eventually. We went by a long path. We found a place to park. Late in the day, many were returning home.

Kids came out of the festival with their families, wearing headdresses, face paint, and toy bows and arrows. They looked gleeful, so we decided to make it a day (or what was left of it, with the sun waning, the sky becoming more dark and gloomy, and the surroundings taking on an otherworldly feel to them).

The sign into the woodland clearly marked "no horses allowed." It was a people path, strewn with bark mulch, that led deep into the forest.

But throughout this, the almost incessant drumbeat, the sound of age-old Lenape voices, and a sign at the threshold which read, "Waneeshi," which means, "nice to see you" or "thanks for coming." There was the circle, made ready for dances. There were warrior men with their dance staffs held high, in respect and admiration for the special honoring ceremony for a woman named Bear Heart.

I asked the master of ceremonies, Snow Owl, to point out Bear Heart. "She's the woman in purple," he said.

I watched the stately, dignified way in which Bear Heart moved in the circle, bearing all the regalia, including the headdress, common to her people.

Bear Heart, also known as Anna Bear Heart Edwards, is from Midlothian, Va. I learned the dance is their way of honoring women.

"Where did you get your name?" I asked.

"It was given to me by an Elder," she said. Bear Heart said she received the name when she was 37 years old. She wore her wedding dress from a year ago during the ceremony.

I asked her to explain the meaning of the color. It has significance that is complex, she said. Purple is the combination of two colors, each designating a separate road — the red and the blue. The red road is the road we choose. The blue is the road of the world, the more traveled road, full of things harmful to life, such as greed, envy, a heavy spirit.

Miranda, her daughter, is 14, and is also called "Little Owl." Her name is her "medicine," said her mother, Bear Heart.

"Her medicine?" I asked.

"Each name has a special message and a gift to bring," said Bear Heart. These, she said, are taught at an early age. Dance is learned. Tradition is a vital part of all the learning.

The Elder appointed her daught-

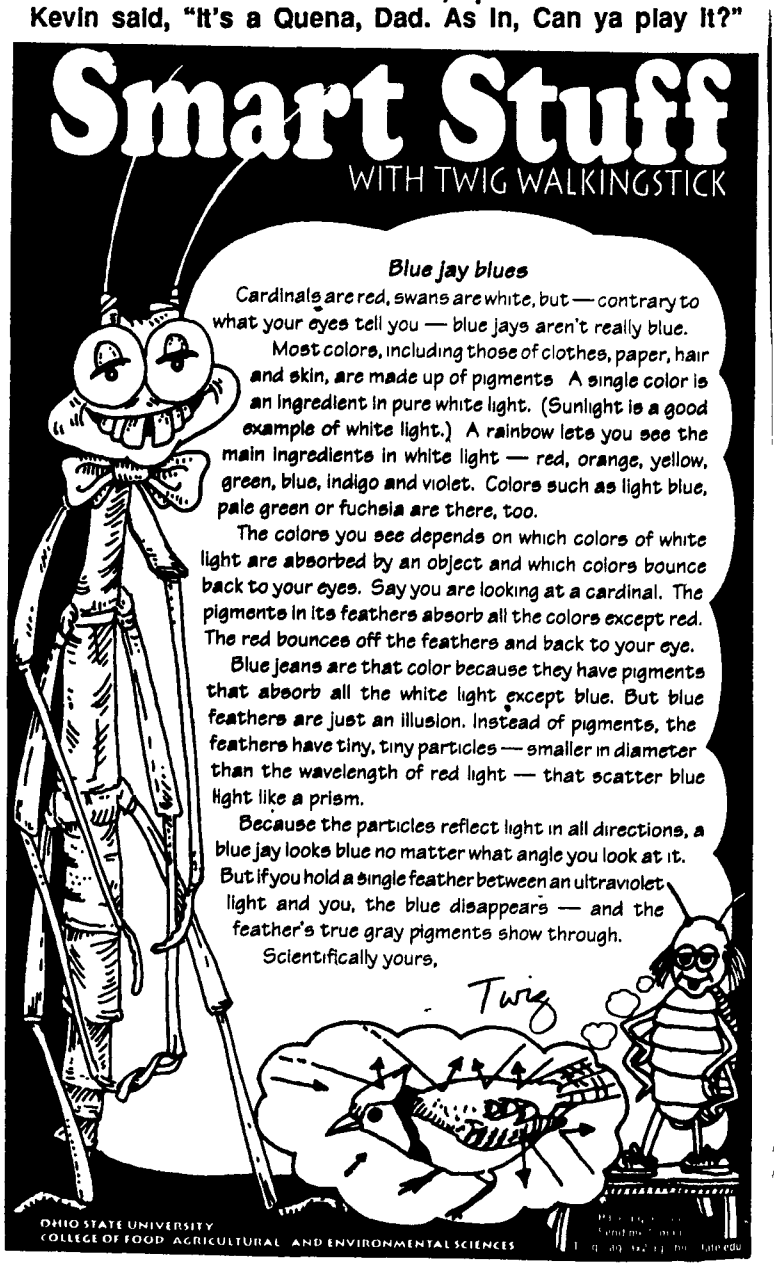
My son Kevin with a handmade, wooden, ancient flute-like instrument called a "Quena," pronounced KEN-YA. Kevin said, "It's a Quena, Dad. As In, Can ya play it?"

The "Switch Dance," in which men dance like the women, is performed.



Smart Stuff
WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK
Blue jay blues
Cardinals are red, swans are white, but — contrary to what your eyes tell you — blue jays aren't really blue.
Most colors, including those of clothes, paper, hair and skin, are made up of pigments. A single color is an ingredient in pure white light. (Sunlight is a good example of white light.) A rainbow lets you see the main ingredients in white light — red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet. Colors such as light blue, pale green or fuchsia are there, too.
The colors you see depends on which colors of white light are absorbed by an object and which colors bounce back to your eyes. Say you are looking at a cardinal. The pigments in its feathers absorb all the colors except red. The red bounces off the feathers and back to your eye.
Blue jeans are that color because they have pigments that absorb all the white light except blue. But blue feathers are just an illusion. Instead of pigments, the feathers have tiny, tiny particles — smaller in diameter than the wavelength of red light — that scatter blue light like a prism.
Because the particles reflect light in all directions, a blue jay looks blue no matter what angle you look at it. But if you hold a single feather between an ultraviolet light and you, the blue disappears — and the feather's true gray pigments show through.
Scientifically yours,
Twig

Preschoolers Learn About Farming

JUDY PATTON
Union Co. Correspondent

MIFFLINBURG (Union Co.) — Barb Wiand believes in starting ag education with preschool children. She and her husband Glenn run a 3,000-head farrow-to-finish hog operation and raise 1,500 acres of crops near Mifflinburg in Union County.

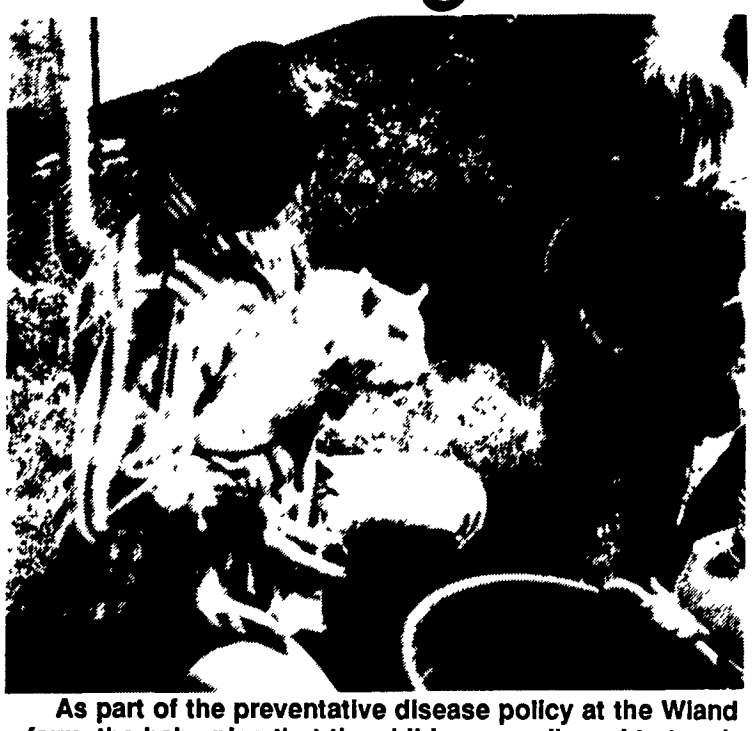
When their son Justin's classmates at the Little Learners Preschool at the Nazarene Church began asking Justin questions about farming, Barb decided to invite them to the farm to show them what farming was like. For that purpose she and her farrowing manager, Erinn Middletown, assembled a managerie of farm animals for the kids to see and touch while they explained a little about each type of animal and answered questions from the kids and their teachers.

The 18 Mifflinburg Headstart students, who traveled by bus to the farm from the Union County vocational-technical school in New Berlin, brought the number of kids who had been to the Wiand farm up to 200. Barb doesn't take them through the hog barn, as they have a "shower-in, shower-out" policy to prevent the spread of diseases. Even the baby pigs they allowed the kids to handle are not returned to the farrowing barn.

Since starting their hog operation in 1990 on the farm they bought from Glenn's parents in 1974, the Wiands have made a conscientious effort to promote not only education but also good will with their non-farm neighbors and friends. They add a powder to manure spread on the fields to reduce offensive odor. Their hog barn is far enough from the road and neighbor's homes that no odor is noticeable off the farm. They even give free pork to their neighbors when they butcher hogs and offer them the use of their hunting cabin.

The Wiands saw the necessity of ag education and promotion

(Turn to Page B15)



As part of the preventative disease policy at the Wiand farm, the baby pigs that the children are allowed to touch are not returned to the farrowing barn.

Farrowing manager Erinn assembled pens of baby chicks and ducklings for the kids to pet.

Mother And Son Establish Businesses Using Creative Skills

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Much has happened to Wendell Stoner since a story appeared about him in this paper nine years ago.

At that time, Wendell was a 8-year-old student, growing up on the family farm and working on overcoming a learning disability. The article focused on Wendell's efforts in overcoming dyslexia. Although he had a high IQ and was bright and inquisitive, a part of his brain reversed letters when he was reading.

Because some research indicated that jumping stimulates the brain by increasing the amount of oxygen reaching the brain cells, Wendell's parents, Ken and Ella Faye Stoner, invested in a large trampoline. Trampoline therapy was not a chore for Wendell, who loved jumping and doing flips on the trampoline for at least 20 minutes daily.

Wendell is now 18 years old. The family believes that Wendell's required daily exercises on the trampoline did indeed enable him to overcome his learning disability. After his stint with the trampoline, he did not need remedial help in the classroom.

Last year, Wendell was graduated from high school. The trampoline remains a visible part of the Stoner family's life. But instead of therapy, it is now used for fun and games when company visits.

Since graduation, Wendell has achieved another of his long-term goals, which was to own his own craft business—just like he stated in the article written about him eight years ago.

At that time, Wendell helped his mom make yard sheep. The fad of owning a plywood frame-shaped sheep covered with sheep fleece was an idea that was a smashing success. The Stoners sold about 2,000 of the sheep and thousands of others copied her idea. But like all decorating ideas, the lawn sheep eventually faded in popularity. Wendell and his mother continue to come up with new ideas using their creative talents.

Wendell is now into photo sculpting. This is actually an old idea with a new method. Photo sculpting was popular in the 1940s, when black and white photos were pasted on wood, cut out, and inserted into a wooden base.

The method had problems. As the wood dried out, the picture cracked or loosened from the backing.

Wendell solved this problem by learning to use an acrylic material for the backing and to put on a protective overlay. This updated method is more costly and time-consuming than using wood, but the results are much better.

Photo sculpturing is especially popular with sports teams. Many national and local sport teams have individual and team pictures taken. The pictures are then given to Wendell who uses the photo sculpting process on them.

Photo sculpturing is especially popular with national and local sport teams. Individual and team photos are attached to acrylic, cut out, and given a protective overlay before inserted into a base for display.

Often community and school teams purchase one of the photos for each team member. Because the sculptures do not require frames, the cost of the project is comparable to a framed photograph. The completed projects are reasonably priced, starting at $10.

All Wendell needs to complete a job is a good, sharp photograph.

People aren't the only focus for the sculpting. Gaining in popularity are requests for a champion cow, horse or a favorite pet. Tractors, tractor trailer trucks, and other equipment are requested most often by men.

Another popular request is a photo sculpture of a house. Homeowners can give a picture of their home to Wendell, who turns it into a sculpture similar to the popular Cat Meow house series.

Names of persons are also cut out with pictures of the person intertwined in the cutout.

Most people display the photo sculptures on a desk or end table. But some ask for smaller cutouts to use on a key chain or as Christmas ornaments.

In addition to doing customized work, Wendell has also purchased rights to use and sell photo sculptures of famous sports figures.

For the past several years, Wendell's mother has established Faye's Monogramming and Embroidery. She does custom embroidery of names and logos on jackets, sweatshirts, and other apparel. In addition, she has 3,000 stock designs. Faye does a lot of work for DHIA and other agriculture companies.

Some farmers have had sweatshirts embroidered with a tractor and the words "Daddy's Little Farmers" and the names of each child.

Another popular aspect of her business is to design sweatshirts for grandparents such as: "Grandma's Pride and Joy" or "This Granny belongs to . . ." or "Grandma's Gang" followed by a listing of the grandchildren's names.

"The nice part is that I can put in the exact wording requested. Grandparents called by unusual names could never find something such as this in a regular store," Faye said.

Both Wendell and his mother operate a stand at Root's Country Market, Manheim, which is opened every Tuesday. Both also work out of their home and through mail order.

For more information, write to Wendell's Creations or to Faye's Monogramming and Embroidery, 124 W. Lexington Rd., Lititz, PA 17543 or call (717) 626-4911.

To make custom photo sculptures of houses similar to the Cat's Meow series, Wendell uses a sharply focused photograph provided by the customer.

Ella Faye Stoner often embroiders names and logos on sweatshirts, t-shirts, and jackets for agricultural groups and for individuals such as proud grandmothers who want to brag about their grandchildren.

When not working on his uncle's farm, Wendell Stoner works at establishing a photo sculpturing and 3-D picture business.

For the photo sculpturing process, Wendell needed to purchase new equipment in addition to using the woodworking equipment that he uses for other projects.

Drums, Dance Fill The Forest At Honoring Festival

er with that name two years ago. Little Owl said it may have to do with habits. "Sometimes I stay up all hours of the night," she said. "I think I have good vision at night."

Like the owl.

Little Owl was wearing the crown and shawl of the princess of the Southeast National American Cultural Association. Little Owl scored a 97 out of 100 on the contest, which measures how much contestants understand about the traditions of the Lenape culture, knowledge of dance, and other items. She was crowned on Aug. 3 this year in Concord, N.C.

Simply watching the dances, it was hard not to be moved and perplexed almost at the same time. I wonder if any of the 3,000 visitors to the Honoring Festival felt the same way.

I was amazed at how the men, with arms raised, with dance staffs held high, became moved by the dances. I felt like too much the outsider — how ignorant, I wondered, would I looked if I asked questions my son Kevin was wondering, like, why do you wear that stuff? What does it mean? Is it uncomfortable? How do you know how to do that?

So I asked. I spoke with Carrie's Hawk, also known as Terry Lee, a truck driver from Ephrata. The name was given to him from the shaman or medicine man. Carrie's Hawk is member of the Warrior's Society. He held up a strange, clawed and feathered stick that he called a "dance staff," essential to the ceremony.

I learned a great deal about how the dance circle is made and maintained by Cat Hadley. There was great fun at the "bash," of sorts, when the "Switch Dance" was performed — the roles are reversed. Women play the role of men, with traditional garb, and vice versa.

Cat's husband, Sandy, reminded me at one time, during a Fallen Warrior portion of the dance, not to take any pictures.

The entire clearing was quiet. You could hear only the sounds of birds.

The men gathered in a circle, holding a feather, looking up into the sky, in honor of a fallen warrior. Men outside of the circle hugged each other. It was a solemnity so intense you could literally feel it in the air.

When the men looked up, you could almost feel yourself lifting from the circle, into a graying but still auburn sky, surrounded by the presence of people in the circle and maybe those beyond.

As we were leaving, my family walked back through the forest, Kevin less mystified that I was. But we were enthralled by the sounds of the handmade, wooden, ancient flute-like instrument he was playing, called a "Quena," pronounced KEN-YA.

My son Kevin said, "It's a Quena, Dad. As in, Can ya play it?"

At day's end, the only sounds left in the forest were the sounds of human laughter.

Preschoolers Learn About Farming

even before another Union County farmer, Ray Espenshade, fought with Lewisburg officials over building a large hog barn on his farm. Because his neighbors feared odor and pollution from a "non-family farm" enterprise, it took Espenshade a year to get a building permit. A group in nearby Snyder County who wanted to start a hog operation employing 300 people lost their battle for a permit. Both disputes were highly publicized.

Barb Wiand is also concerned about adverse publicity, such as the "60 Minutes" television show segment showing a North Carolina hog farmer illegally dumping dead hogs in a public watershed.

She is working with the growing Pennsylvania Pork Producers Association and attending educational meetings not only to improve management skills but also to learn public relations methods.

Bugs 'Greatest Athletes' In World

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Except for Muhammad Ali's famous "float like a butterfly, sting like a bee" analogy, most people don't make any connection between insects and athletics. But some bugs arguably are the greatest athletes in the world.

Those attending Penn State's fifth annual Great Insect Fair, September 20 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., will see insects perform amazing feats of strength and agility — in relative terms — at the Insect Olympics and Peep Show. In addition to such attractions as cockroach races, children and their families will be able to match their own physical skills to those of six-legged competitors.

"The average man can pull about 85 percent of his own weight," says Maryann Frazier, extension entomologist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "Ants, on the other hand, can pull 52 times their own weight. That would be the equivalent of a human pulling 4.5 tons.

"If we could jump as high as fleas, relative to our height, we could clear a 70-story building," Frazier continues. "Insects' phenomenal physical adaptations and behavior help them to make use of resources, escape predators and catch prey. The Insect Olympics will offer several fun activities and games designed to illustrate insect biology and engage kids, and their parents, in learning."

The Insect Olympics and Peep Show is just one attraction planned for this year's Insect Fair. The event, sponsored by the Department of Entomology, also will feature:

- "Water World," an exhibit of aquatic insects
- displays of social insects, such as ants and honey bees (including a live, working hive)
- an insect petting zoo
- tours of the Frost Entomological Museum
- displays on garden pests
- fly-tying demonstrations
- insect collections and collectors
- balloons, face-painting and an insect puppet show

In addition, butterfly lovers can board a bus and visit nearby Tudek Memorial Park, where they can tour a butterfly garden containing examples of host plants suitable for home gardens and landscapes. Buses will leave the Insect Fair and return from the park on the half-hour from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Those who work up an appetite may want to stop by the Insect Deli, where delicacies such as mealworm stir-fry and chocolate-covered chirpies (crickets) will be served.

The Insect Fair will take place in and around the Agricultural Sciences and Industries Building on Penn State's University Park campus. Admittance is free, although donations will be accepted. Free parking is available in the Orange A lot at the corner of Curtin and Bigler Roads.

For more information, call the entomology department at (814) 865-1895.

MUELLER® THE MILK COOLING SYSTEMS SPECIALISTS

Did you know that food additives have been in existence for thousands of years and play a valuable role in food safety? They are an important part of our food supply system because they keep food appealing, maintain freshness, improve nutritional value and help processing and preservation. Common food additives are also used to retain a desired consistency in a food product, enhance a flavor, impart tartness to a beverage, provide a desired texture and help to maintain palatability and wholesomeness.

One of the world's first food additives was salt. In prehistoric times, salt was probably used to preserve fish and meat. Salt as well as sugar and corn syrup continue to be the most common food additives. These three, along with baking soda, pepper, mustard and vegetable colors make up 98 percent by weight of all additives which are deliberately added to food to cause a desired effect.

The average American takes in about 140 pounds of food additives each year, most of them familiar. The list includes 114 pounds of sugar and 15 pounds of salt. Other common food additives are citric acid, vegetable colors, and baking soda.

Foods labeled "No Preservatives" seem to pop out at you on the food shelves of grocery stores across America. What's so bad about preservatives? Why all the hype about colors, stabilizers and other additives in foods?

The two major reasons that food additives receive bad press are that some people have allergic reactions to them and there has been a carcinogenic (cancer causing) link to certain additives.

Food additives are closely regulated by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS). All additives are initially evaluated for safety by the FDA.

Additives to be used in meat and poultry products must also be evaluated by the FSIS which is part of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. FSIS uses FDA guidelines, but looks more specifically at the additives' effect on meat and poultry products.

It is important to remember that the absolute safety of an additive can never be proven. That is why additives are never given permanent approval, and the FDA and FSIS continually review the safety of approved additives.

People often ask how much is needed? The amount of a food additive necessary to perform a specific function is frequently infinitesimal. One example can be seen in the preparation of iodized salt. Less than 1/5 ounce of potassium iodide is added to each 100 pounds of table salt. Sometimes, however, a larger amount of an additive may be necessary to bring about the desired result. In the case of 100 pounds of baking powder, for instance, four pounds of calcium silicate might be used to keep the baking powder free-flowing. Whatever the amount, the exact proportion is scientifically controlled and only the amount necessary to produce the desired result is used.

However, additives do serve a purpose and are a necessary part of our food supply. Without them we would have to come up with new ways to solve some nutrient deficiencies such as rickets and goiter. Rickets is a vitamin D deficiency which affects the growth of bones in children. The addition of vitamin D to milk in the 1930s helped reduce the incidence of this disease in America. Adding iodine to salt, beginning in 1924, helped prevent goiter (enlargement of the thyroid gland).

Other problems such as spoilage would occur if food additives were unavailable. Some foods would not be available in some parts of the country because they could not be shipped fast enough to avoid spoiling.

The wisest advice for people concerned about eating food additives is to eat a variety of foods. Remember an excess of any substance may be harmful.

Cook's Question

QUESTION — Violet Cassner, Newburg, lost a recipe for ham baked in Coco Cola. She recalls that the ham was soaked in Coco Cola overnight in the refrigerator, and then baked with a caramel glaze.

QUESTION — Stephanie Huger, Meyerstown, is looking for a recipe for pumpkin strudel with poppy seeds and sour cream or cream cheese. Her grandmother from Hungary made it, but Stephanie lost the recipe.

QUESTION — Cel Brown of West Chester wants the recipe for a bread mix like the ones in the store called Daily Bread Company's. These mixes can be made ahead of time.

ANSWER — Thanks to Alma Klahold, York, for sending in the recipe requested by Catherine Shearer, Greencastle.

Homemade Hot Dogs
100 pounds

10 pounds ice water
4 ounces cure
12 ounces paprika
8 ounces ground mustard
4 ounces ground black pepper
2 ounces ground celery
1 ounce mace or corriander
1 ounce garlic powder
2½ pounds salt
3½ pounds non-fat dry milk
8 ounces dextrose
60 pounds beef trimmings
40 pounds pork trimmings

Grind all the meat together using a plate with fine holes. After grinding, mix all ingredients with water and meat. Mix for 2 or 3 minutes or until all ingredients are evenly distributed with the meat. After mixing, pack into stuffer using 24 to 26 mm size lamb casing to stuff hot dogs.

Smoking and cooking:

After stuffing, hang hot dogs on smoke house sticks properly spaced, making sure they do not touch each other. Allow hot dogs to hang (about 1 hour) in room temperature when using natural casing or 30 minutes when using synthetic casings.

Smoke by placing into preheated smokehouse and dry for approximately 30 minutes. Apply heavy smudge for approximately 1½ hours and gradually rise smokehouse temperature to 165 degrees and smoke until internal temperature is 152 degrees.

After smoking, the hot dogs should be quickly showered with cool water for about 10 minutes or until internal temperature is reduced to 100 degrees. After showering with cold water, allow hot dogs to chill and dry at room temperature.

Chilling:

Hot dogs should be placed in 50 degree or cooler temperature and chill until product has reached an internal temperature of 50 degrees.

ANSWER — A reader had wanted a fried rice recipe. Thanks to Jeanne Fredrick, Devon, Ct., for sending a recipe, which she had received from a friend in Hong Kong.

Fried Rice

6 ounces shrimp
6 ounces barbecued pork
¼ cup green peas
1 green onion, chopped
1 egg, beaten, fried, and chopped
4 cups cooked rice

Marinade:

¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white wine
¼ teaspoon white pepper
½ teaspoon cornstarch

Combine marinade ingredients and marinate shrimp in it.

Heat 3 tablespoons oil in wok. Add marinated shrimp and marinade. Stir-fry 2 minutes. Remove from wok. Add another tablespoon oil to wok. Add rice, ¾ teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon white pepper. Stir fry 10 minutes. Add cooked ingredients. Stir fry another 1-2 minutes.

ANSWER — Betty Kellicutt, Auburn, wanted a recipe for Queen Anne's lace jelly. Thanks to Marlene Ochs, Reading, for sending a recipe.

Queen Anne's Lace Jelly

7 cups water
30 large Queen Anne's lace flowers
2 packages Sure-Jell
7½ cups sugar

Boil water. Add flower heads. Remove water from heat and steep 10 minutes. Strain off 6 cups tea. Add Sure-Jell and bring mixture to hard boil, stirring constantly. Add sugar all at once; cook, stirring. When tea returns to hard boil, cook, stirring one minute longer. Remove from heat, skim. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

ANSWER — For economical and nutritious substitutions for fat-laden foods, Carol Hostetter, Doylesburg, suggests replacing vegetable oil with apple juice and applesauce for butter. Adjustments may be needed. Some recipes work better with only a half or three-fourths of the oil or butter replaced with applesauce.

ANSWER — Mrs. Blair Smith, Zebulon, Ga., wanted a recipe for "Cake in a Jar," which is baked in a jar. Thanks to Susan Moyer, Newmanstown, for sending this recipe.

Canned Applesauce Cake

¾ cup shortening
3⅓ cups sugar
4 large eggs
2 cups applesauce
1½ cups raisins, optional
¾ cup chopped nuts, optional
3⅓ cups flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
1½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves

Cream shortening with sugar. Beat in the eggs and applesauce. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, and spices. Blend into applesauce mixture. Add chopped nuts and raisins if desired.

Fill nine, clean, greased wide-mouth jars half full with the prepared batter. Bake open jars about 45 minutes in an oven at 325 degrees. When done, quickly removed one jar at a time and clean its sealing edge. Immediately apply and firmly tighten a two piece wide mouth canning lid. The lid will form a vacuum seal as the jar cools.

Jars of cooled cake may be stored with other canned foods or placed in the freezer. The cake is safe to eat as long as jars remain vacuum sealed.

These cakes make attractive gifts. Add ribbon and a bow around the top and a note. The cake is delicious and provides a conversation piece.

Thanks to an anonymous reader for sending this recipe and a note that more recipes for baked cakes in jars can be found on the internet at hHpill homearts.com.

Gingerbread Baked In Jars

2¼ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon (ground)
¾ cup margarine, softened
½ cup molasses
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons ground ginger
1 teaspoon ground cloves
¾ cup water

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Grease 5 12-ounce quality crystal jelly jars (must have straight sides, no bulges in the jars). Use a pastry brush to grease the jars because they're too tall and narrow to fit your hands into. Do not use vegetable spray, it doesn't work. In a large bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking soda, baking powder, salt, ginger, cinnamon, and cloves. Stir in margarine, water, and molasses until well blended. Pour mixture equally into five jars. Place jars on a cookie sheet in the center of the oven and bake 35 minutes or until tester comes out clean. Have sterilized lids read. Take one jar at a time from the oven, place a lid and ring on top and screw down tightly.

Dairy Council Wins Top Summit Honors In National Competition

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Dairy Council, Inc., won top "Summit" honors in the 1997 Associations Advance America Awards, a national competition sponsored by the American Society of Association Executives (ASAE), Washington, D.C. Dairy Council received the award for its school assembly program, The Marvelous Machine at the ASAE Chicago '97 Convention gala ceremonies.

The Marvelous Machine school assembly is an interactive and creative learning experience that intertwines education and entertainment into a theatrical production teaching elementary students about the benefits of milk and good nutrition," says Jan Stanton, executive director of Dairy Council. To date, this program has reached more than 80,500 students in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware with positive dairy messages.

For the second year in a row, Dairy Council, Inc. has been awarded a grant from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, enabling Dairy Council to bring the assembly to some low-income districts in Pennsylvania for free. Carolyn Weaver, a nutrition education specialist for Dairy Council, is the project manager for The Mavelous Machine. In this role, Ms. Weaver has coordinated the research, development and ongoing management of the assembly program.

Now in its seventh year, the prestigious Associations Advance America Awards recognize outstanding efforts by organizations to make America a better place to live — through public education, economic development, business and social innovation, knowledge creation, standards, and community service. Although association activities have a powerful impact on everyday life, they often go unnoticed by the general public.

"Individually, Dairy Council's program is impressive for its focus and impact. It embodies the powerful reach associations have in making our country a better place in which to live," remarked ASAE President R. William Taylor, CAE. "It is our honor and inspiration to showcase this excellent program."

Carolyn Weaver, right, a nutrition education specialist for Dairy Council, Inc., Carlisle Office, accepts the Summit Award from Susan Bitter Smith, American Society of Association Executives (ASAE). Weaver is project manager for The Marvelous Machine, Dairy Council's nutrition education school assembly program, which was recognized by the award. Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

Every few weeks my husband decides that he wants to go to his camper in Jack's Mountain. So, we drop everything and get ready. The baskets of pears and tomatoes have to wait until we come home again.

He puts the heavy-duty battery in the back of his station wagon for the electric boat motor. He untangles the fishing lines and stacks the tackle boxes. My job is to prepare food for several meals. We pack our own overnight bags and we are off to the mountains. Always there are a few reminders such as, "Do you have your fishing license?"

My wish would be for a magic carpet that would do away with the hours of driving through heavy traffic. But, we finally arrive and find everything in place, just as we left it the month before.

As I take a short walk, I find some conical-shaped blackberries. And, then I also pick some beautiful elderberries to use for a pie when we get home. That evening we fish on a nearby lake but don't have much luck.

The next morning the inside and the outside thermometers register 50 degrees. But, heating water on the stove soon warms our small camper. This morning we head for Bald Eagle State Park and another long drive. Here the water is very choppy as there is a strong wind blowing and our boat rocks continually. We try several spots and catch a few nice-sized perch. After hours of sitting quietly, we head for shore and lunch.

However, we approach the wharf too rapidly and when the boat stops with a big thud, I fly backwards off of my seat and land in the bottom of the boat with my feet in the air. What a humiliating experience.

Excellent Variety of Refreshments

MILK PROFITS INCREASE FOR PA. FARMER

Darryl Trego of Thompsontown, Pa., has found a way to increase milk production while reducing cost!

Since he started using Vitamix; Darryl Trego of Thompsontown, Pa., has seen fewer cases of mastitis. When he does have a cow with mastitis; he notices that it clears up quicker.

The only defense the cow has against infections like mastitis and other infections and contagious diseases such as the cold, flu, etc., etc., is white blood cells. Antibiotics damage the immune system and reduce the ability to produce those white blood cells. That is why so often, cows have relapses after going off antibiotics. You can avoid that damage to the immune system when you quit using antibiotics.

Vitamix is a natural blend of vitamins, minerals, enzymes and proteins. Vitamix costs less than antibiotics and you can get Vitamix without a prescription because it is all natural and completely free of all drugs.

Mr. Trego feeds Formula M to all cows TWICE a day every day. Trego says he has seen milk production go up and milk production is more consistent. Trego prefers to see the cows milk production more consistent rather than drop off near the end of the lactation.

Vitamix and Formula M have reduced the cost of producting milk while production increased.

Farmer's Market Celebrates 50 Years

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — For 50 years, Wednesday has been market day in Leesport. It's been a fixture in Berks County since it opened July 9, 1947, as the Leesport Market and Auction. And so began the history of the Wednesday tradition of "Where Friends Meet" for both town and country folk.

The market was started by Leroy J. Weist. In June 1960 John U. and Leroy H. Weist purchased the Leesport Market and Auction from their father. They owned the market for 25 years and one month.

On July 1, 1985, William H., son of John U. Weist and Daniel W., son of Leroy H. Weist, purchased the market from their parents. At that time the market's name was changed to the Leesport Farmer's Market, Inc.

During the past 50 years, the market has experienced tremendous growth. On opening day there were about 30 "huckster" stands and 25 consignors sold cattle over the livestock sale. The farmers market and flea market has grown to more than 500 stands on a nice summer day.

Shoppers enjoy a country fair atmosphere as they stroll through the aisle of produce, flowers, meats, cheeses, bakery items, clothing, new and used items, etc. The many food vendors offer a large selection of prepared food to satisfy everyone's hunger. The number of weekly consignors has grown to more than 200.

To celebrate the 50th anniversary, the market sponsored many special events. There were prize drawings, coloring contests, free music, free anniversary party, a memory contest and much more. A Leesport Farmer's Market "Memory Book" which contains the "Memories" from the "Memory Contest," the history of the market, and much more will be available at the Anniversary Banquet.

On October 18 the Leesport Farmer's Market will conclude their anniversary activities with a banquet. Secretary of Agriculture Samuel E. Hayes Jr. will be the main speaker. A slide presentation will be presented on the history and growth of the market. It will be a time to reminisce about the past 50 years.

The public is invited to attend the banquet. The cost of the banquet is $15 for adults and $7 for children 7-12; children 6 and under are free.

Custom Cutters Retrace Harvest Brigade

ATLANTA, Ga. — Each year, more than one-fourth of America's wheat crop is harvested by custom cutters who blaze a combine trail through ripening wheat fields from Texas to Canada.

This annual combine trek was originated and named the Harvest Brigade by Massey-Harris (Massey Ferguson's predecessor) in 1944, in response to the increasing need for food during World War II. As Massey Ferguson® celebrates its 150th anniversary in 1997, MF® combines will again be a part of this year's Harvest Brigade.

In 1943, wartime food production boards had set a goal of one billion bushels of wheat for 1944, and other crop plantings in proportion. With many farmers already serving in the armed forces, reaching this goal seemed almost impossible.

At that time the self-propelled combine, developed and introduced by Massey-Harris, was relatively new and unproven. But company executives knew their new Model 21 Self Propelled was capable of handling a substantial part of the harvest in less time, with fewer people, and at lower cost than current methods.

Acting with the ingenuity that characterizes the company even today, Massey-Harris executives received permission from the War Production Boards of Canada and the U.S. for the steel needed to build 500 Massey-Harris No. 21 self-propelled combines.

One of the 500 Massey-Harris No. 21 self-propelled combines harvesting crops in the 1944 Harvest Brigade to provide food during World War II. Massey Ferguson, the successor company to Massey-Harris, is celebrating its 150th anniversary.

The plan required these 500 combines to be sold to farmers who would agree to harvest, under Massey-Harris supervision, a minimum of 2,000 acres each.

In March 1944, trainloads of No. 21 combines, bearing the decal "Massey-Harris Self-Propelled Harvest Brigade," began leaving Toronto for southern Texas, Oklahoma, and California.

In early April the machines began combining wheat, oats, maize, and other plantings, fanning out to harvest crops between the Mississippi River and the Pacific Ocean and north to Canada.

For four months the battle lines moved northward, harvesting upwards of 500,000 bushels every working day — the equivalent of 250 fully loaded box cars.

At the end of the Harvest Brigade, Massey-Harris had made good on their promise. The 500 M-H self-propelled combines had worked 1,019,500 acres, saved 365,000 man-hours and 500,000 gallons of fuel, and harvested upward of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat, oats, barley, flax, sorghum, alfalfa, onions, lettuce, beets and carrot seed, peas, beans, and maize.

The United States Ordance Division presented a citation to Massey-Harris describing the Harvest Brigade as "An example of subcontracting on a prodigious scale that was one of the most outstanding in the United States."

This first Harvest Brigade revolutionized harvesting methods with the self-propelled combine and has been repeated every year since 1944, with custom cutters using Massey Ferguson and other brands of combines to harvest grains in every kind of field and weather condition from Texas through the heart of the Canadian prairies.

PACMA Acquires Upper Dauphin Grain Center

ELIZABETHVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — PACMA, Inc. has acquired Upper Dauphin Grain Center for an undisclosed amount and began operations there effective Sept. 2.

Under the agreement, PACMA, Inc. will retain all current employees, as well as all of the current business programs available at the Grain Center.

According to Michael Orndorff, PACMA president, all existing business operations will remain unchanged for the foreseeable future, which includes fertilizer blending, bagging and sales, in addition to the grain elevation business. Orndorff's explanation for the rapid and sudden takeover was to ensure that Upper Dauphin Grain, a division of PACMA, Inc., would be in a position to provide uninterrupted service through the harvest season.

Lynn Henninger, one of the former proprietors of the facility, will remain available for the next several months in order to assist PACMA to provide for a smooth transition.

Millcreek Introduces Aerator

BIRD-IN-HAND (Lancaster Co.) — Millcreek Manufacturing has introduced the Model 1050 turf core aerator, which provides greater productivity for treating soil compaction on sports fields and heavily used turf, such as play areas in parks.

With a coring width of 102 inches, the new aerator penetrates soil up to 3 inches, depending on soil conditions, and can treat nearly 225,000 square feet of turf area per hour.

Core aeration improves air and water movement in soil to enhance turf growth, and also helps relieve thatch buildup which inhibits water infiltration and can host damaging turf fungi and insect pests.

The Model 1050 aerator comes with a choice of 20 or 30 tine assemblies. The tine assemblies, sometimes called spoon wheels, are independently mounted on the axle which helps reduce turf tearing. The hollow tines are temperhardened for longer life. The Millcreek Model 1050 aerator, shown here with optional tow-behind package, including pneumatic travel wheels and hydraulic lift control.

Model 1050 aerator comes with a Protector Shield™ safety cage, which encloses the sharp tines during storage and operation to help reduce the chance of injury.

The new Model 1050 aerator is available with three-point hitch mounting, or in a tow-behind model with hydraulic lifting control. The operator adds weights to the built-in weight rack to adjust the tine penetration depth suitable for specific soil conditions.

Badger Has New Rear Unload Forage Boxes

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Badger Farm Systems has extended its line of forage boxes to include new 18-foot and 20-foot rear unload models.

According to John Kreider of Show Ease Stall, these forage boxes capitalize on the company's new resources and its long history of providing rugged and reliable farm equipment.

Examples include a unitized steel box and understructure that includes full length steel stringers combined with other formed high strength steel frame members to form a durable integrated assembly. The box is flex-designed to handle changing terrain. Full length side sheets are made of tough, corrugated 20 gauge, aluminized steel.

For convenience, the rear door opens automatically when the unloading apron is engaged. It closes and relocks when the box is empty, without having the operator leave the tractor. The door's hinge point is as high as the roof for unobstructed unloading. The roof has a heavy duty edge protector, and is rafter-free for unobstructed loading.

Other features include a marine grade ¾" pressure-treated plywood floor and a highway light package including red and amber lights.

25,000th Combine Rolls Off Assembly Line

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. — Outfitted with a fresh coat of yellow paint and glistening black tires, the 25,000th New Holland Twin Rotor® combine rolled off the company's Grand Island, Neb., assembly line and enjoyed its moments of fame before heading off to 3,150 acres of corn and soybeans to show its true grit.

On hand to accept the keys to their latest purchase were Eugene Schmit and Sons of McLean, Neb. They had recently traded their TR™97 for a TR™98, not realizing their decision to trade would land them on an outdoor stage along side senior New Holland officials, including New Holland North America President Allen R. Rider.

"What a privilege this is," said son Dan Schmit speaking for the family, after learning their combine would become the 25,000th produced out of Nebraska by New Holland. "With so many good farmers in this part of the country, we feel excited about being the ones to take part in this significant event."

The Schmits' new combine displays a special insignia, labeling it as the 25,000th unit. A commemorative plaque was also presented to the family during the ceremony attended by most of the plant's employees.

No stranger to New Holland products, Eugene Schmit and sons, Dan, Joe and John, run their 3,150-acre diversified grain operation with two New Holland Genesis™ tractors and a Versatile® tractor. Eugene and each son has his own farm, although they share the use of their equipment. The sons also share responsibility to purchase fertilizer, feed, and chemicals, a management tool that helps hold operation costs down. About 60 percent of their production is field corn, with the rest in soybeans. They also custom combine 300 acres in the fall.

Case IH 8580 Center-Line Rectangular Baler

The Case International 8580 is designed for commercial producers and large hay operations that have big package needs With a 46 5" x 50 0" (1 18 x 1 27 m) bale chamber, the 8580 can form a bale up to 108" long, weighing up to 2,200 lbs (1000 kg) Just right for efficient handling, stacking and trucking

TOP-END PRODUCTION

The 8580 is no ordinary baler This system is designed for high capacity hay production The 8580 can pack the equivalent of 20 to 40 conventional rectangular bales into a single package, and is capable of producing over 200 bales a day Also, storage requirements are actually reduced versus the equivalent tonnage of small rectangular bales This size bale is convenient for transport, and handling and stacking these bales is a snap, too They're much more manageable and stack better than round bales that are comparable in weight The best part about the 8580 though is that it makes high-quality, weather-tight bales You won't find another line of balers that makes better quality hay It all begins with the center-line design— the same concept used on all Case International rectangular balers From the time the crop is swept up by the wide, low-profile pickup until it exits the bale chamber, it moves in a straight line The end product—a uniform bale that cures evenly for high-quality hay

These bales feed better than others do, too Just cut the twine and break off as many flakes as your livestock need Or, they're easily ground or processed for feeding in either dairy or beef operations

QUALITY CONSTRUCTION

We know how critical field performance is to your success reliability is expected when buying any new piece of equipment That's why the 8580 is designed for ease of operation and built to last Its 18,700 lb weight is a testament to the amount of steel that goes into building one Its main frame, axle and hitch are high-strength, welded box-beams constructed to resist the twisting forces of rough terrain It doesn't stop there The massive gearbox transmits high torque loads, and a 460 lb flywheel absorbs and overcomes peak loads for smoother operation And, the 8580 features heavy-duty packer and stuffer fingers, as well as a heavy-duty plunger with a short 30-inch stroke length and 25 4 stroke-per-minute speed for reduced wear while being gentle on tender crops

R42. Engineered For Better Returns.

Just because the R42 is the smallest member of the GLEANER combine family doesn't mean it's small on features. In fact, the R42 has many of the same traits found in its bigger brothers. It just has a smaller bin capacity (170-bushel grain tank to be exact). And it's the perfect companion to the farmer who doesn't need a big combine but still wants the same features as the larger models. Take the Natural Flow Harvesting System for example. Its unique transverse mounting cylinder will move your crop in a ribbon-like fashion from the concave through the cage. So your crop never changes direction, giving you higher grain quality. The ComforTECH cab has an air-ride seat that adapts to your height and weight. With lumbar support, adjustable arm rests and seat angles which add to its creature comforts. And with its 185 hp turbocharged, liquid-cooled engine, you'll have plenty of power to get the job done. To get a closer look at the R42, just stop by and see us. We'll be happy to show you how the GLEANER R42 is engineered for better returns.

NATIONAL LIVESTOCK SHOW CODE OF CONDUCT — (PART 1 OF 5)

Editor's Note: The next five articles will present the proposed National Livestock Show Code of Conduct as presented to attendees at the Second National Youth Livestock Program Ethics Symposium. Part one of this series provides some background information as an overview to the guidelines of the code (parts 2 and 3), oversight (part 4), and summary (part 5). As the steering committee for the Pennsylvania Code of Ethics Program for Animal Exhibitions plans to implement a uniform set of guidelines for events specifically in Pennsylvania, it is important for participants to understand some of the local, regional, and especially national guidelines that will influence the final guidelines for Pennsylvania. The original, unedited initial document will be provided in this series of articles. Responsible comment is invited and welcome.

The reader is asked to provide comments of this initial document. The goal is to obtain nationwide and statewide consistency in what is taught to our young people and what is enforced at livestock exhibitions. Only in doing so can we present a united front in addressing the ethical problems which have recently plagued us.

Preface

The National Livestock Show Code of Conduct was developed as a draft document.

The committee is presenting this code for participants at Fairs, Shows and other competitive events to the "Second National Youth Livestock Program Ethics Symposium" for consideration as an initial attempt to develop national standards.

To prepare this document, the committee drew heavily on or copied "The National Show Ring Code of Ethics" developed by the American Live Stock Show and rodeo Managers Association (ALSS&RMA), the "National Code of Show Ring Ethics" produced by the International Association of Fairs and Expositions (IAFE), and the "Show Ring Code of Ethics" followed by the Purebred Dairy Cattle Association (PDCA). While the different Codes have many commonalities, each also have unique aspects. The subcommittee attempted to synthesize a set of standards acceptable to all participants.

There is a need for all shows and exhibits to band together to present a common attack on all cheating and abuse of animals. Not only because that is the right thing to do, but because the public and legislators are becoming increasingly sensitive to these issues and are demanding we take more responsibility in this area. Widespread publicity of problems has changed the public's perception of youth programs and agriculture from wholesome activities to a more tainted view. The public now sees us as having problems with corruption of and by youth to win huge monetary awards, which includes abuse of animals and endangerment of their families from residues of legal and illegal drugs. Their tolerance for this situation is, and should be, zero.

Thus fair and exhibit managers must be aware that these enterprises undoubtedly will be eliminated or severely restricted, unless we take an aggressive and national approach which revives the public's faith in our good works. We can not do this by maintaining turf, by ignoring the issues, or down playing the significance of these problems. We have individually, as organizations, made progress. Now is the time to come together, through a consensus mechanism, to form mutually beneficial national standards that are enforceable throughout the USA. The draft document prepared by the committee is just the first step in this process. It is not perfect. To enforce such a national standard, it will be necessary to develop a database of known offenders, so if a person is barred from participating in shows in one state, they will also be barred from other states. There obviously must be a mechanism for appeals and due process. Obvious and willful violators must be removed from competition. The final decision on allowing a person barred in one state, to participate in a fair or exhibit in another state will be made by the fair or exhibit as an individual entity.

It is proposed that there be a $1 per entrant fee at all shows, fairs or exhibits to cover the costs associated with the database, including liability insurance. Any excess funds will be used for national educational programs on ethics or codes of conduct for youth and other participants, and exhibit managers. A Board of Directors will manage the money and direct the educational programs. It is suggested a neutral organization be identified to handle the day-to-day operation of the database and educational activities.

Various purebred associations will have specific standards that address issues of importance to that species and breed. The adherence of their members to these general standards does not preclude an individual association from having specific requirements for their membership. Nor, does it preclude any fair or exhibit or specialty breed organization from having more stringent standards. Some associations may even find it useful to differentiate between minor and major violations.

The showing of purebred animals is an important part of the promotion, merchandising and breeding program of many breeders, of all species. Breed associations consider that stimulating and sustaining interest in spectators and other breeders in their breed is an important part of their services.

Preamble For The Show Ring Code Of Ethics Of The American Livestock Show & Rodeo Manager's Association Letter To Exhibitors

It is the intent of the livestock show management to provide each and every exhibitor an atmosphere of competitive spirit that promotes an educational experience, as well as honesty and integrity. As an exhibitor you have spent countless hours caring for your animals. Through this project, you have gained knowledge in animal husbandry that includes selection, genetics, nutrition, health, fitting, showing, economics and marketing. Hopefully, you are developing life skills such as communication, leadership, cooperation, discipline, responsibility and financial management. By participating in this competitive event, you are putting your had work and effort on display before judges who will evaluate your livestock. Each of you are also on display as a representative of your respective organization. The general public views 4-H and FFA as organization that teach you, our future leaders of agriculture.

It should give each and every one of you the utmost satisfaction knowing they are entering this event with a clear conscience that you did your best, and will walk away with more knowledge than you had coming into this competition.

Experience is a valuable teacher. It allows each of you to gain knowledge, and enables you to improve each time you participate in any type of function, whether it is livestock or non-livestock related. The livestock show management strives to provide each participant an opportunity for a positive educational experience, and the potential to enjoy competitive excellence.

Remember that the choices you make today will determine what you will have, be, and do in the tomorrow's of your lives.

The management of this livestock show expects each exhibitor to perform their own work and present an honest animal for competition to the best of their ability. There is no place for individuals that incorporate deception, dishonesty, cheating, or sacrifice the humane treatment of animals for the cost of winning at this show. Cheating defeats the purposes of the livestock show, which is to teach animal husbandry and to

WHAT ARE THE EFFECTS OF VARYING DAY LENGTH ON GROWTH OF BROILERS?

R. MICHAEL HULET
Associate Prof.
Dept. Poultry Science

Many investigators have looked at various day lengths to determine what is optimum for broiler growth and meat production Continuous daylight, increasing day lengths, intermittent lighting, and short and long day lengths have been compared

The data indicate that the most rapid growth for modern broilers occurs when birds are grown under continuous 23- or 24-hour day lengths Continuous daylight allows birds access to feed and water at all times, especially during the coolest portion of the day during hot weather Continuous day length allows broilers to reach their genetic potential for growth and meat production

However, genetic selection for increased broiler growth has resulted in chickens developing some metabolic lesions if not correctly managed Rapidly growing birds have a higher incidence of 1) Sudden Death Syndrome (SDS), 2) leg abnormalities such as tibial dyschondroplasia (TD), rotated and twisted tibia or femurs, or rickets-type slipped tendons, and 3) ascites, which is also called "water belly" All these lesions have been linked with the rapid rate of growth of broilers

Some investigators have advocated different management regimes to prevent or reduce the development of the symptoms of metabolic diseases among rapidly growing birds Investigators from Canada (Classen and Riddel, 1989; Classen et al, 1991, Blair et al, 1993) have shown that short day lengths at early ages can decrease skeletal disorders and incidences of SDS

Alabama researchers (Renden et al, 1991 and 1992) also showed fewer leg abnormalities and improved carcass yield with a lighting program that provided decreased day length early in the production cycle

However, all of these experiments resulted in significantly lower body weights Most of the decreased day-length programs reduced the day length to 6 hours of light at 3 to 5 days of age causing a reduction in feed consumption and bird growth during this critical period Other researchers have merely reduced feed provided to the birds for an 11- to 14 day period early in life to reduce growth and hopefully reduce the other metabolic side effects This strategy has also been successful in reducing metabolic lesions but still at the expense of reduced body weight at market age

In 1997, a study was reported from Penn State University at poultry science meetings in Georgia, where light was reduced to 16 hours a day from 3 to 28 days of age and then increased gradually as the birds approached market age. This lighting regime was tested against a conventional 23-hour per day lighting treatment on three different strain crosses of birds.

Although there were some strain differences in body growth, it was found that the birds on the experimental lighting treatments had two percent less mortality at seven weeks and actually an increase in body weight over those raised on the control (23 hr) lighting system. The lowered percentage mortality and enhanced growth was consistent for the three different strain crosses of broilers.

Increased activity was noted for the broilers on the experimental lighting treatment and may have contributed to the improved health and growth of the broilers.

Therefore, reduced lighting treatments starting at three days of age was shown to be an effective management tool for reducing metabolic lesions and mortality while promoting growth of broilers.

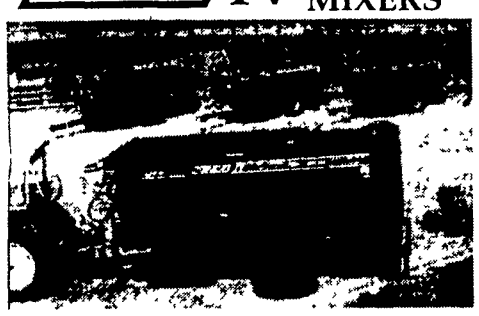
ROTO-MIX IV FEED MIXERS



With ROTO-MIX IV you reduce fines, minimize shrinkage, and eliminate dead spots. The gentle tumbling action mixes fragile flaked and high-moisture ingredients without grinding, resulting in a fluffier, more nutritional ration.

The ROTO-MIX end-to-end... side-to-side mixing system provides the most thorough TMR available, ensuring that your cattle will consume a balanced ration of nutrients in every pound of feed they eat.

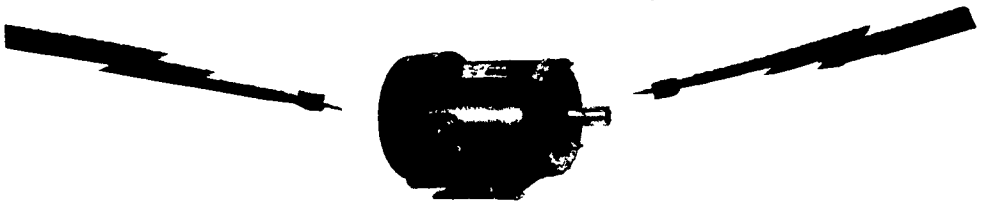
SMART TECHNOLOGY FOR VACUUM PUMPS



Cuts Electric Energy Used 50% - 80%

- Excellent investment payback
- Quiets vacuum pump
- Works with both lobe and vane-type pumps

Look What John Landis, Landyshade Farm says about this new technology installed in his milking parlor:

"I believe the savings in electricity will pay for this machine in a very short time. The noise levels are a fraction of what they were before. All of our employees love the quietness of the pump."

- Ordinary systems rely on the vacuum pump running full speed with a regulator valve. This system allows the pump to run at the exact speed required for the amount of vacuum needed.
- Watch for upcoming barn meeting to learn more about this E-Tron Controller PMC.
- Call immediately for more exciting details.

Thurmont, Emmitsburg Community Show Largest in Maryland

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

THURMONT, Md. — Len-Land Acres Harry Fran was named supreme champion of the diary show here at the Thurmont and Emmtisburg Community Show.

"Of all these high quality heifers, she's the one I'd most like to load up on a trailer and take home with me," said judge Stacey Kahler of Keymar abouth the big white holstein senior yearling. Fran was exhibited by 13-year-old Amanda Lenhart of Thurmont.

Amanda, the daughter of Harold and Kay Lenhart, took fifth place with Fran at the 4-H show at the state fair in Timonium recently. The family milks 290 registered Holsteins at their Len-Land Acres near Thurmont.

Vales Pride Demand Virgin, an Ayreshire intermediate yearling shown by Mark Valentine of Thurmont, took home the reserve champion rosette.

The annual community show is a three-day event held at Catoctin High School that has been a 41-year tradition in the area. "I helped start the show 41 years ago, and I'm still involved in it," said Rodman Myers, president of the community show. The show is the largest community show in the state. This year exhibitors numbered 650, and more than 2,900 exhibits were entered.

The champion Brown Swiss selected by judge Kahler was Glad-Ray Revival Donora, an intermediate yearling exhibited by Tyler Nowell of Thurmont.

Top Jersey honors went to the junior calf Ashes Banana, shown by Ashley Mayer of Taneytown.

In the beef show, the grand champion steer was a 1,205 pound crossbred owned by Jamie Hertel of Rocky Ridge. Jamie is the daughter of Dave and Robin Hertel. Reserve grand champion steer was the champion Hereford exhibited by Zachery Sweeney, the son of Hal and Mary Sweeney of Thurmont. The reserve champion crossbred was shown by Kim Stup.

The reserve champion Hereford was shown by Bradley Seiss. The champion Angus steer was shown by Chad Hahn, who also exhibited a pair of his black Angus heifers to champion and reserve champion in the beef heifer show. Laura Keilholtz took home honors for her reserve champion Angus steer.

Sixty-three head of livestock went through the sale ring at the beef, sheep, and swine sale held at the high school's ag center in conjunction with the show. Eighteen steers averaged $1.20 per pound. Hogs averaged $1.48 on 30 head. Fifteen market lambs brought an average of $1.80 per pound.

Jamie Hertel sold her 1,205 pound grand champion steer for $1.70 per pound to Schildt Construction. Zachery Sweeney received a top bid of $1.35 from Edwin Creeger American Legion for his reserve champion steer, weighing 1,230 pounds.

LEADERSHIP AT WORK™

Leick Named Honored Cooperator

SHAWANO, Wis. — Kenneth Leick, Stratford, Wis., a longtime dairyman and member of 21st Century Genetics, has received the prestigious Honored Cooperator award in recognition of his years of service as a cooperative leader.

Leick has retired after more than 26 years of service on the boards of directors of Midwest Breeders Cooperative, 21st Century Genetics, and Cooperative Resources International (CRI). He served as president of the 21st Century board since 1986 and as chairman of the CRI board since is formation in 1993.

In presenting the Honored Cooperators recognition to Leick at the CRI annual meeting on April 1, Tom Lyon, CRI's chief executive officer, made these remarks:

"Today we celebrate a milestone in the history of the cooperative. After 26 years of service, Ken Leick is retiring from farming and your board of directors. An innovative and highly-respected farmer, Ken has been just as receptive to new ideas and visionary thinking as a cooperative leader.

"Ken has led this cooperative in the best of times and the worst of times, always with a steady hand and on a predictable course ... do what's in the best interest of the farmer-member owners.

"By today's standards, Ken Leick would never make it in politics. With him, right is right, wrong is wrong; tell it like it is; don't betray your friends and associates for personal or corporate gain; and never take advantage of your position.

"By his own admission, Ken Leick was never a 'cow and bull' man. His forte for this organization was his deep conviction to cooperative enterprise. He understands the principles of cooperation and applied them in his leadership like few of today's farmer governance businesses have.

"To believe in cooperatives, one has to believe in fairness and equality of participation and have a deep sense of empathy for those who find themselves struggling. These are the traits that kept Ken Leick the recognized leader through a difficult merger in 1985 and 1986 and as a farmer-leader messenger selling the CRI idea in 1992 and 1993.

"These traits also propelled Ken to a set on the board of the National Association of Animal Breeders (NAAB) and the recipient of that Association's Farmer-Director recognition, and service on the Board of the Wisconsin Federation of Cooperatives.

"These few minutes seem like too short a time to acclaim the accomplishments of a person who has 26 years of high level service to this cooperative and to the cooperative community. Ken Leick made the sacrifices only true leaders are willing to extend on behalf of their fellow men and women."

Jamie Hertzel showed her 1205 pound crossbred steer to grand champion.

Thurmont, Emmitsburg

The grand champion swine, a 245-pound crossbred gilt owned by Joshua Ruby, brought $3.50 per pound from Tri-County Pools. Joshua is the sone of Randy and Caythee Ruby of Rocky Ridge. Jessica Troxell sold her reserve grand champion swine, a 260-pound crossbred gilt, for $2.70 per pound to Thurmont and Emmitsburg F&M Bank. Jessica is the daughter of Robert and Helen Troxell of Rocky Ridge.

The grand champion market lamb, a 130-pound Suffolk owned by Sara Cox of Emmitsburg, sold to Nancy Carlin for #3.20 per pound. Sara is the daughter of Gary and Sally Cox. The reserve champion market lamb was sold by Megan Portner to Denniel Willard for $2.25 per pound. Megan's parents are Robert and Robin Portner of Sabillasville.

PURINA PROFILE

"...PERSONAL RELATIONSHIP..." RITTER FEEDS

For the expanding business of Ritter Feeds at Paxtonville in Snyder County, the customer base and sales volume have increased significantly since the new owner, Gary Ritter purchased the feed enterprise in 1990. And the 18 employees have a very up-beat outlook on the business of farming.

"The sky's the limit in this business," Ritter said. "It's just a matter of how well you want to serve it."

And they serve it well. They have bulk and bag trucks and combinations. They store, roast, and dry grains and make customized formulations. Ninety percent of their business in a 50-mile trading area in Snyder, Union, Juniata, Lycoming, and Mufflin Counties is dairy. Regardless of what most feed companies are doing now, Ritters believe in concentrating service representatives in the areas they serve.

"We get into a personal relationship with our farmers," Ritter said. "And we bring a competitively priced product to the farm. At the same time we expect that product to give the farmer excellent performance."

To make sure this Purina dealership keeps focused on their objectives they have two bits of philosophy that summarizes the way they do business. At Ritter Feeds they are large enough to serve you and small enough to care. In addition, they will work as long as necessary to make sure no one goes without feed past the evening of the day the customer needs it.

We tend to be independent around here for feed manufacturing. But at the same time we need the technologhy and dealership support that comes from Purina. Purina's research farm is second to none and they have the best line of products to support the dedication to our customers.

This gives us the opportunity to sell what the customer needs and not what we want to sell. Purina is definitely the company to be with," Ritter said.
